IN PARLIAMENT

'To Satisfy Greed' Liberal Senator Says

(From Times News Services)

OTTAWA — Veteran parliamentarian Jean-François Pouliot says that after 35 years in Parliament he has seen the first piece of legislation designed "to satisfy the greed of a bureaucrat."

The Liberal senator from Quebec referred Thursday night to a bill that would empower crown corporations and agencies administering patents developed by civil servants to make use of the financial receipts from the inventions.

Speaking as the Senate gave final reading to the bill, Senator Pouliot referred specifically though not by name to the president of Canadian Patents & Development, Ltd., a crown agency which holds the Crown's patent rights. The post is held by Dr. E. R. Birchard.

The bill, Senator Pouliot said, represented "devious and circuitous ways to infringe on the power of Parliament."

Formerly, money coming from crown-held patents went to the federal treasury, and therefore was subject to parliamentary control.

'They Want to Run the Show'

"Most top civil servants are greedy for power," he said. "They want to run the show in the back of the minister and of the Parliament of Canada."

He said the president of Canadian Patents told a Senate committee that the bill was designed to help inventors who are civil servants.

"I am not from Missouri, but I do not believe it," Senator Pouliot said.

The Senate and the Commons met for only two hours because of the state funeral held in the afternoon for External Affairs Minister Sidney Smith.

J. W. Pickersgill Thursday night promised to provide Justice Minister Fulton with what he described as defamatory and libellous statements made about the RCMP's part in the Newfoundland loggers' strike. The MP for the Newfoundland constituency of Bonaville-Twillingate said he'd give Mr. Fulton the statements after the minister had told him he couldn't take legal action to protect the RCMP's good name—as suggested by Mr. Pickersgill—without knowing to what statements the Liberal referred.

Mr. Pickersgill said later he referred to press reports.

A Canadian delegation will leave in the next few days for Canberra to begin negotiations there for a new trade agreement between Canada and Australia, Trade Minister Churchill said.

John H. English, deputy trade minister, will head the delegation.

The decision to review the existing agreement, signed in 1931, was announced at the Commonwealth trade and economic conference in Montreal last fall. In essence, it provides for exchange of preferential tariff treatment.

A government supporter was challenged Thursday night to give the House an explanation promised by a cabinet minister about patronage on national parks jobs in Manitoba. Walter Dinsdale (P.C. Brandon-Souris) was reminded by Douglas Fisher (CCF, Port Arthur) that the House was promised by Resources Minister Alvin Hamilton earlier this session that Mr. Dinsdale would explain the patronage matter. However, Mr. Dinsdale remained seated with a smile on his face and made no reply.

PM Urges UN Act on Berlin

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker has called for "further and more careful study" of the possibility of a United Nations role in a settlement of the West Berlin problem.

His statement in the Commons Thursday night was the strongest ever issued by the government in favor of an idea which has been under study for some time by the government's external affairs officials.

But the prime minister did not go beyond a general statement in support of the principle of the UN being included in any settlement on Berlin. It is understood that no definite or precise proposal has been devised.

Mr. Diefenbaker spoke in giving the Commons a brief report on his talks Wednesday with British Prime Minister Macmillan and Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd.

He said the talks reviewed the problems of Germany, Berlin and European security "and of the various proposals for a settlement of those problems now under study in Western capitals and in NATO."

"I should emphasize that neither Mr. Macmillan nor I attempted to crystallize any British or Canadian position on specific questions under discussion."

'Significant Role Deserves Study'

"However, I might add that it is my belief that the United Nations might play some most significant role in the solution of the Berlin problem and that this phase deserves further and more careful study."

Both Opposition Leader Pearson and CCF spokesman H. W. Herridge welcomed the statement.

Mr. Pearson said "it is particularly gratifying to hear the Prime Minister say that there may be a way in which the United Nations can, in due course, play a part in this Berlin situation in a manner which would be helpful to peace and security."

Mr. Diefenbaker also said Premier Khrushchev's statement Thursday—that Russia is prepared to accept May 11 as a date for a foreign ministers' conference—indicates the talks "now seem likely to be held."

It is understood that the basic idea under study here is to find some way in which the UN might underwrite a new four-power agreement on the status of Berlin.

Ideas range from use of UN officials to replace Russian guards at checkpoints along West Berlin's highway lifeline, to something as involved as a UN force to replace the occupying garrisons in West Berlin.

MURDER SUSPECT WAIVES EXTRADITION

Dreamed He Must Return

HONOLULU (AP)—A Romanian-born mess boy waived extradition and consented Thursday to be returned to Vancouver to face a charge of murder.

Konstantin Dumitru, 39, told detective Archie Plummer of Vancouver that he had a dream Wednesday night that made him change his mind.

Dumitru will be charged with murder in the death of bartender Robert White, who was found strangled with a shirt in his Vancouver apartment March 5.

Only Wednesday, Dumitru refused to waive extradition and declared he was innocent.

Detective Plummer testified at a hearing Wednesday that the shirt with which White was strangled bore the same laundry mark as shirts he found among Dumitru's belongings on the freighter Kolsholma.

Plummer also said Dumitru had a wrist watch which belonged to White.

BATTLE TO SUPREME COURT

Driver Ruling Challenged

HAMILTON, Ont. (CP)—Lawyer Sydney Palkin said Thursday he now plans to ask the Supreme Court of Canada to judge Ontario's careless driving law following Wednesday's Ontario Court of Appeal decision which ruled the law valid.

In a 3-to-2 decision the appeal court ruled that the careless driving section of the Ontario Highway Act is valid and does not infringe on federal law. This upset the ruling of Chief Justice J. C. McRuer of the Ontario Supreme Court who said it did.

Ontario's Attorney General Robert Ross said some measures are needed to safeguard well-established legislation from being upset on technicalities. He is trying to organize an interprovincial conference to discuss the problem.

70,000-Name Petition Asks More Help for Unemployed

A British Columbia Federation of Labor petition bearing 70,000 names and requesting the British Columbia government to take action to relieve unemployment problems, was presented in the Legislature Thursday by Opposition Leader Robert Strachan.

Referred to the government legal department for study, it will be brought back before the Legislature today.

The petition, which Mr. Strachan said would have been supported by more names if there had been more time, asks that the federal government be requested to extend unemployment insurance coverage for the total jobless period.

It proposed a moratorium be declared to protect homes and increased social assistance to the out-of-work, creation of more low-rental homes, public development of the British Columbia power potential, and preparations for "a broad national conference" to meet the unemployment crisis, in 1960.

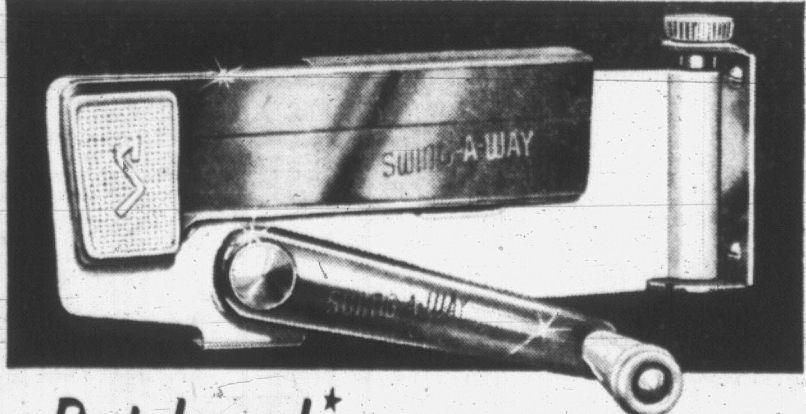

The signed forms were wrapped in several large bundles.

The Civil Service

THE BENNETT GOVERNMENT, or any government in a free country, is entitled, we think, to forbid strikes among its servants. The new British Columbia legislation does not actually forbid such a strike but forbids picketing if a strike occurs. While not declared in the statute, the intent is clear—the state does not recognize the right of anyone to paralyze it.

Civil servants may now strike legally, so far as the new law is concerned, but without pickets they can hardly hope to make a strike effective and will be wise to abandon the attempt. For all practical purposes the Legislature has said that government, unlike private business, should be immune to interruption.

But this should not end the dispute between the civil servants and the provincial Government. While ruling out strikes among its servants, by implication if not by absolute prohibition, the Government has not yet given them full justice. It has not established in its new law any orderly bargaining procedure by which its servants can negotiate for salary increases or other benefits. Indeed, it has refused for months even to meet representatives of the civil service. It has treated a loyal body of men and women with discourtesy, almost with contempt—and this though it has already recognized their just claim for higher salaries and has agreed to pay them.

Now that the strike question has been settled (or should have been settled) the Government must mend its manners, meet its servants if they desire and make sure that in future this bargaining will be properly conducted. It should further agree—as the civil service apparently is ready to agree—that in the event of disagreement on salaries and similar questions the dispute will be settled by arbitration. That procedure should have been clearly established when the existing laws were amended.

The Government has behaved disgracefully also in refusing, while the Legislature was in session and could debate it, to table the Carothers report on civil service salaries.

The civil servants and the public were certainly entitled to see this report. The Legislature should have been able to read it while the whole strike question was under consideration. Instead, the Government suppressed a vital document.

Such tricky, deliberate suppression of public information should never be allowed to occur again.

These events, it is to be hoped, will prevent another strike but they have created, mainly through the Government's bad manners, a deplorable breach between it and its employees. The morale of the civil service, which is essential to good government, has been shaken, gravely and unnecessarily.

Justice Is Done

ON DECEMBER 7, 1955, ATTORNEY-GENERAL Bonner learned from reliable witnesses that his colleague, Robert Sommers, was suspected of accepting bribes. Thirty-nine months later the highest court in British Columbia has found that Sommers was guilty and has been convicted after fair trial.

The courts have dealt with Sommers. It will be for the electors of his constituency to deal with Mr. Bonner at the next election. It is for them to say whether a man who delayed the enforcement of the law and the performance of his sworn duties so long should retain his office.

Meanwhile Mr. Bonner has an immediate duty to perform. So long as the Sommers case was under appeal and might result in another trial before a British Columbia court, the Attorney-General could argue that he should delay the prosecution of other accused persons about whose guilt or innocence the trial-court jury disagreed. If Sommers was to be tried again in B.C. it would save public money to try him along with those persons. Now that the Appeal Court has rejected another trial for Sommers there is no excuse for further delay. The other accused should be tried again forthwith.

In this long and melancholy case there is one good reason for satisfaction. The integrity of our courts has been splendidly vindicated, not without the gravest difficulty.

Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson, who conducted the trial, faced and settled questions of law unique in Canada's judicial history, proving himself to be one of the nation's greatest judges. And though many of his rulings were questioned by defence counsel, his management of the longest criminal trial in Canadian history has been upheld in all respects by the Appeal Court.

Seldom has a Canadian judge received such a tribute—a tribute in which the whole public of British Columbia will join. Our society is the stronger for knowing that under judges like Mr. Justice Wilson its foundation, the judicial process, remains inviolable and secure.

'Lack of a Leader'

A SMALL ITEM IN THE TIMES news columns this week told of an "emergency meeting" of Oak Bay Scouts; a troop was in danger of collapsing because of a lack of a leader. The item concluded: "It is hoped parents of Boy Scouts and all those interested in Scouting will attend."

A follow-up of the item discloses that the appeal was not successful. A poor turnout resulted; no leader was immediately forthcoming; it remained for Scout officials to dig out a list of possible candidates so that this boys' group could continue in its valuable work.

In the Big League

DEBATES ABOUT THE BEST type of aerial defence to purchase at prices running into billions of dollars are brought up short from time to time by such statements as that of Lieut.-General Arthur Trudeau, described as the U.S. army chief of research and development. There is no defence yet, says General Trudeau, against the intercontinental ballistic missile.

It is this missile which is soon to be placed on an operational basis by Russia and the West. It will thus, at one stroke, make obsolete all present defensive armaments including the Bomarc missile which Canada is preparing to employ.

Eventually an antidote to the ICBM will be found. An anti-missile missile will be perfected, says Trudeau, but he warns that unless the present pace is accelerated his country cannot supply such a weapon until at least 1965.

The anti-missile missile will not be enough. Warning of the approaching attack must give the defenders time to react. To provide ten minutes advance warning the missiles will have to be detected 2,400 miles away. Under such conditions Canada's whole DEW line and radar detection system, which has cost many millions of dollars and is being improved at the cost of millions more, will be quite useless.

It is in this rapidly changing environment that the Canadian Government must fashion a defence policy within the limits of our economic capabilities and the preservation of our national sovereignty—a task insuperable without the close co-operation of our powerful neighbor to the south.

Until effective and economically feasible defence armaments can be perfected, the only real defence against aggression must be the deterrent effect of powerful offensive armaments. In this field, at the moment, we must rely almost wholly on the United States and its Strategic Air Command.

"But Mr. Gagardi, your worship... if you had the cam housing from bypass the dual carbs, wouldn't that reduce your effective drag potential... with all due respect, sir?"

CLEARING THE AIR

By B. A. TOBIN

New Use for Entertainment Heroes

GENERATIONS of string-savers, button collectors, odds-and-ends gatherers and just plain junk amassers have lived by the adage that if you keep a thing long enough you'll find a use for it. The maxim has just acquired a wider use and thereby survived one of the sternest tests it can ever have been put to. They have found a use for old Elvis Presley recordings.

Tobin

There can be no doubt that the question of what to do with Elvis Presley records has strained the maxim to the utmost. Even if you kept them for a very, very, VERY long time, it seemed, there could be no rewarding use for them by any citizen in possession of all his faculties. But the problem has been solved, and quite handsily too, by the Ministry of Supply in Britain.

They use Elvis Presley recordings to scare away seagulls.

The thing was stumbled on by accident. It appears. A tape recorder was being used to pick up the cry of a gull in distress. It was hoped to use the sound to scare seagulls away from an airfield where they were becoming a hazard to aircraft.

Up, Up and Away

By some accident, a Presley recording already on the tape was run off within hearing of the seagulls which immediately took off and weren't seen again for twenty-four hours.

That says a lot for Elvis Presley recordings. It also says a lot for seagulls—a heretofore unjustly maligned form of bird.

There is, of course, a danger inherent in the principle of using pests to get rid of pests. One calls to mind communities which have used starlings to get rid of grasshoppers, and then couldn't get rid of the starlings; or areas which set out poison to kill off bad bugs and ended up by destroying good bugs too.

In the same way, a remedy which dispersed seagulls might also send human beings flying to escape Hounddog and its variations. Obviously the thing will have to be used with a certain amount of restraint.

But it opens up vistas of useful employment for many of the most persistent features of our modern entertainment world.

Could an Arthur Godfrey film, for instance, be used to keep crows out of a cornfield? Could Frank Sinatra's voice be utilized for the large-scale protection of cherry orchards from robins? Would an Ed Sullivan re-run have a soporific effect on restless cattle on the range?

New Careers

There are possibilities of commercial exploitation here which should be investigated. The biggest flopper in the entertainment world might make a clean-up as a form of pest control or predator exterminator. Who can know the latent talents that may be revealed?

This is not an argument in favor of saving all the tapes, films and recordings that are available. It is one of the safeguards of the scarecrow and seagull-shooting industries that a new supply of basic material is constantly being manufactured. It is not really necessary to dust off an old recording and take it into the fields—except, of course, from sentiment. Any music counter can provide a fresh and apparently unlimited flow of suitable stuff.

Another hazard here presents itself, however. It may be that certain low forms of fauna which it is desired to eliminate will, instead of being repelled and put to flight by the ultimate weapon, be attracted by it and the whole operation will end in disaster.

What disgusts a seagull may perhaps delight a praying mantis; the sight and sound of some TV idol, abhorrent to normal humans, quite conceivably could prove a source of attraction to, say, wolverines or locusts.

In the Mouths of Diplomats

Mr. Macmillan has said that he thinks it right that Britain—and by that he can only mean Mr. Macmillan—should give a lead to find a way through. That means that he will be formulating and making his proposals to the Allies at the same time as he is dispelling the fears in Bonn and Washington that he has gone too far with Mr. K.

In taking something of the mantle of Mr. Dulles, the Prime Minister seems to have acquired some of his travelling habits as well.

Whether Mr. Khrushchev's toothache was merely diplomatic or not is still an open question, but the latest evidence does at least suggest that he actually went to the dentist.

It seems that when Mr. Khrushchev was trying to make things up again with Mr. Macmillan towards the end of the trip one particularly felicitous thought struck him. The drill used on the aching tooth, Mr. Khrushchev explained, was British and had been specially bought in London.

If the original toothache was diplomatic the reconciliation seems to have been even more diplomatic.

With All Those People We'll Need Many More Parks

(Last of five articles)
THE Capital Region Planning Board, forecasting a population of 195,000 for this community in a northward spread up the Saanich peninsula by 1976, has outlined the plans that must be made to assimilate such an increase comfortably. It has indicated, also, why this part of the continent is a magnet to new comers, as well as residents of long standing, and has suggested means by which it can retain its attraction.

Stott

"The Capital Region's reputation as a fine place in which to live is largely the result of its unique surroundings, the proximity to the countryside, the miles of coastline, beaches, and scenic headlands," says the board's report. "These advantages are now threatened by rapid urbanization which is spreading at the rate of one square mile every three years."

Hence the emphasis on parks. The need for them is great now. It will be much greater in the future. Adults who were children in Victoria recall the days when an abundance of open ground and vacant lots provided unlimited play space for youngsters. That play space is largely gone now. It is occupied by family residences or commercial centres.

As residential density increases the community will turn to parks—and unless the land for parks is acquired now, it will probably rise prohibitively in price.

The plan calls for a concerted effort to "save some of the countryside." It proposes certain areas in a regional park scheme, advocates extension of the marine drive with adequate public access to beaches and headlands, recommends the development of small boat anchorages, and deals with specific parks in the rural and metropolitan sections.

The planners mention Mount Douglas, Thetis Lake, Goldstream and Elk and Beaver Lake parks, along with Sooke Mountain and Lake Matheson, and urge that smaller rural parks on Bear Hill and Mount Newton should be extended. They also seek land on Cloak and North Hills, and on the Rithet Hills north and south of Royal Oak Avenue. Reservations are feasible at this time, they say, in the Highland district.

In the metropolitan area, the board seeks to supplement existing parks with public development of the Cedar Hill Golf Course land, suggesting that the course be replaced by another on property near the intersection of Burnside and Prospect Lake Road.

More playing fields are advocated and the possibility of a stadium in the Topaz Park Brickyard area is suggested.

These are locations where the larger population will play and find recreation.

They are also points of interest to tourists.

But before it can enjoy recreation, a community must find an income. Where will the residents of the Capital Region earn their wages, and how?

At present 28 per cent of all employment in the region is supplied by government services, two-thirds of that by the military and civilian branches of the Naval Defence Service, with the federal and provincial civil service furnishing the remainder.

A substantial percentage find work in manufacturing, chiefly in shipbuilding and wood products industries. Beyond that, concerns serving tourists and retired citizens—the percentage of the latter in Victoria is double the Canadian average—also furnish jobs.

The planners are not too optimistic about major industrial development in the future.

"Manufacturing industries are of lesser importance in the Capital Region than in any of the other metropolitan centres of Canada," they say. "This is the result not only of locational disadvantages and the limited local market, but also of the shortage of large harbor, front sites suitable for basic industries and the limited supply of fresh water."

Good fresh water we have in abundance for domestic needs, but not for industry.

As the board members see the situation, there is not too much opportunity

As Our Readers See It

Strikes and the Retired

Practically every day, if one picks up the paper, one sees that some fresh "strike" has started for more wages. Sometimes it is because the Canadian union has received instructions from Chicago or some other American "parent" body to take this action.

This, of course, lends a cheerful note of variety to the picture. These days, of course, it is never because the members of the union in question are not receiving a wage which gives them a comfortable living but either because they have not "gone on strike" for more pay for three or four months and think that it is about time that they did, or because they think that some other union has secured better terms than they have, or some equally cogent reason. Also, they know that if agreement cannot be reached and an arbitrator is appointed, he will be bound to give them some increase.

In the meantime there are many people in Victoria and elsewhere in B.C. who have to get along on what was sufficient when they retired on account of age—say 10 years ago—and which would be looked upon with disdain by a bricklayer's laborer today.

We, at any rate, are not likely to forget that while all this is happening, the cost of living is continually rising. When can we hope that this kind of thing will come to an end?

E. P. WATHERSTON.

565 Marfield Avenue.

What About the Public?

I am sure that many civil servants do not agree with the action of their leaders in going out on strike after getting in full all their demands for $3,000,000 increases. Such action is in line with the militant attitude of Unions generally in the hands of leaders who couldn't care less for the interests of the average citizen who has to do the paying. Absolute equality with the commercial business in salaries is just pushing too far and for obvious reasons not necessary or correct.

If it were not for the outrageous demands of labor generally there would be no need to advance civil service wages at this time. It's purely a case of follow the leader even though the cost of living is up 26 per cent and wages 72 per cent up over 1949 basis. The cost of living is not quoted any more in demands for increases but rather "it is the trend" and "we need more money to spend on the leisure we now have." These reasons were actually given by the Victoria civic employees for $450,000 of increases in 1959.

What about the people who are struggling to keep their independence and keep off welfare. I am not a Social Creditor but can do nothing but commend the Social Credit B.C. government for being the first government in Canada to bring in legislation which does something to place labor in an equal place with business and citizens generally in law and justice.

If the civil servants are given unlimited power they will no doubt come back next year for another $3,000,000.

Human nature being what it is, what would there be to stop them?

Looking for a Boy's Footprints

THE street outside our house is being improved in the interest of capital beautification. In the process a small part of Gonzales Hill is being nibbled away, the old road surface has been broken up, the travelled section is being widened and the grade lowered.

Eventually we'll have a fine section of marine drive out there. In the meantime we have gone back to a dirt road. The boss of our house looks at the mud and talks of locking off the living room to save her new rug.

The excavations have produced their surprises. One of the workmen reported the discovery of a skull. Human, he said, peering at me as if to assure himself I still had my head on my shoulders, or perhaps to see if I looked guilty.

A bit of unvarnished local history is coming to light.

No carbon clocks have been brought into play to push back the traces of man in the district beyond the ice-age. Still, as the hard paving goes and the dirt emerges beneath it, some of us long in the locality can gaze at it, searching for the footprints of boyhood.

This is the original roadway we knew, a sort of memory lane. The couch grass grew up to its edge a few decades ago, and bounding the couch grass snowberry and wild rose bushes made a screen with luxuriant nettles beside alder thickets, arbutus and fir that have gone the way of urbanization.

An earlier generation padded barefoot down the road as it then was, knowing the sensual pleasure of deep dust powdering up between its toes in summertime. The same generation knew the vexation of the tar wagon's visit, when the municipality sent out its gang with a dripping vat on wheels to scatter the sticky, viscous coating over that section where carts traveled.

The stuff would cling to bare feet and a boy would spend half an hour on the beach, scouring his soles with sand before parents would let him in the house.

But the tar wagon's treatment was not an unmixed nuisance. A boy, carefully sorting over the ground when the material cooled, could gouge out hunks and chew it with a fine disregard for germs. Tar, the legend ran, was the best thing possible to whiten teeth. Given the flavor of road traffic in those days, it gained an added virtue. And tar from the road was an essential caking ingredient for the boy who carved himself a dugout canoe.

Still, you skirted the tar, walking in the roadside dust in those far-gone summers, trudging to Big Andy's where a narrow glacial cut in the shore rocks ran deep and where a boy with a length of salvaged wrapping string and a bent pin could fish for tommycod.

It was a hero's way, the dirt road from Foul Bay beach to Chinese Point, and un-sung heroes trod it.

They walked in the guise of urchins in ragged pants, sun-bleached cotton sweaters, bare legs marked with the healthy dirt of unpaved by-ways, carrying their catches from the fishing hole. Small fish, they were, rock cod, kelp trout, snappers, the occasional sea bass, strung on sticks.

The small world was theirs and the summer's day, claimed with loud talk and the harmless bragging of the very young.

And along the old dirt road passed the mystery of the Chinese funeral, its off-key hand playing, its officials scattering perforated devil papers, and its spirit drawn cart carrying a freight of paid mourners whose lamentations lent strange contrast to the stoicism of deeply touched relatives.

That was an occasion for heavy youthful pedestrian traffic. In gawking ignorance the boys of the neighborhood accompanied the procession, gazing at the banners painted black on white cotton and carried by ceremonial marchers. At the cemetery gates the youngsters lined up in unseemly cupidry, waiting the distribution of paper-wrapped coins given away by the family of the deceased to show his generosity.

Old-timers can gaze at the dirt of the old road, newly revealed, and catch again recollections of those who walked it. They may recall the classic finish-flight beneath the street lamp which decided the leadership of the Foul Bay gang in years gone by. They may remember sauntering along what was little more than a country lane to woods that no longer exist. They may even speculate on the skull workmen have unearthed.

But the spur to their memories won't remain long. Soon a new, smooth length of blacktop, adequately curbed, will have covered the earth of earlier passage. A highway for fast and comfortable motor travel will have been laid down. That, quite obviously, is progress.

UN CORRESPONDENCE

By STANLEY BURKE

Report on Schools

NEW YORK — Almost half the world's children receive no formal education of any kind, says a World Survey of Education put out by the UN Educational and Scientific Organization. Two hundred and fifty million children never see the inside of a classroom.

The report is a monumental 1,381-page treatise, containing almost seven pounds of information on 197 national and territorial school systems. UNESCO investigators found that the world's school facilities are expanding more rapidly than ever before but they are just able to keep ahead of the rising school-age population.

Progress is being made, however. Fifty-five per cent of the world's children were in school in 1954, as compared with 48 per cent in 1950. Looking over the past 25 years, UNESCO finds that the school-age population has increased by 22 per cent, whereas primary school enrolment has risen by 33 per cent in the 85 countries and territories for which figures are available.

Unfortunately, since China is not a member of the United Nations, there is no report on schooling in this one quarter of the school-age population.

More girls are now going to school than ever before, and, for the world as a whole, there are almost as many girls in schools as boys, says UNESCO. In Nepal, however, only 4 per cent of girls were enrolled, in Afghanistan 8 per cent, and in the former Spanish zone of Morocco only 11 per cent.

The opposite is true in Basutoland in South Africa, where there are twice as many girl scholars as boys. In Basutoland, since time immemorial, boys have been employed herding the all-important cattle. This is an area where the arithmetic of the size of the herds is considered far more important than any arithmetic which might be learned in a classroom.

In a country-by-country commentary, the report finds that the Belgian Congo had one of the most dramatic increases in school attendance, a sevenfold increase, in one generation. The school population rose from 145,000 in 1930 to 1,060,000 in 1954.

Incidentally, although the report doesn't comment on this, the emphasis on education in the Belgian Congo is part of Belgian colonial policy which has emphasized progress in almost every field except political. Recent rioting and unrest in the Congo are interpreted at the UN as proof that education and political progress cannot be separated.

In Ghana, enrolment went up almost 10 times from 35,000 in 1932 to 508,000 in 1954. It was found, however, that as many as 30 or 40 per cent of the students drop out after the first grade because they are needed to work on their parents' farm, because of a feeling that the education was not worth the cost of books and materials, and "an inability to meet financial obligations, no matter how small."

In Greenland, famous for the advanced state of its Eskimos, the school system includes instruction in the use of harpoons, firearms, dog-driving and kayaks. Girls are taught preparation of sewing of skins as well as home economics. High school and sometimes university is common education for Greenland Eskimos, whereas even high school education is rare for Canadian Eskimos.

In Iceland, one of the most literate countries in the world, there have long been itinerant teachers who travel from one remote farm to another. Construction of boarding schools is making the itinerant teacher less needed, however.

Theories Exploded By Brazilian Beaut

By HILDA BEASTALL

Quite often, readers are kind enough to phone us with information concerning unusual plants and their doings.

Taking top honors to this date was the report this week of a large-leaved philodendron in bloom.

It is usually assumed that these climbing plants from Brazil can not be expected to bloom so far north as Victoria. So here was the unexpected which had happened in order to disprove all our theories.

This was the second bloom produced this spring by the same plant, and I was warned that the previous flower had lasted only 36 hours.

By noon next day you would have found me standing on a chair gazing, by kind permission of the owner, at this phenomenon.

The plant was, as closely as I could identify it, Philodendron hastatum, with rich green leaves about 12 inches long, deeply lobed at the stem end.

Death-Rink Poorly Built

LISTOWEL, Ont. (CP)—Primary cause of the collapse of the Listowel Arena, February 28, was poor fabrication and the failure of a laminated wooden truss or trusses, a coroner's jury investigating the mishap said Thursday night after deliberating 8 1/2 hours.

Weight of snow on the northeast side of the structure was named as a contributing factor.

Seven young boys and the town recreation director were killed in the collapse.

"For the future protection of all residents," the jury recommended legislation be enacted so that all plans for arenas and public buildings shall be passed upon by the local building authority or a provincial authority where no local authority exists.

GOLD-RUSH BROKE UP STRIKE OF CIVIL SERVANTS IN 1865

The pages of history today revealed there is nothing new in a strike by B.C. civil servants. They filed it before in 1865.

Yellowing pages of the Victoria Chronicle, June 20 that year, noted that 20 out of 30 government workmen laboring on a wagon road between New Westminster and Yale, struck for higher wages.

They were getting $45 a month and found, but they wanted $60 with unspecified fringe benefits.

"The demand was refused and they knocked off work on Thursday last," notes the Chronicle. The men didn't wait around to set up pickets, but left in a group for the gold fields of the Cariboo.

Car Business Healthy Gamble

BY MAL MALONE
Times Business Editor

The fortunes of the automobile industry are flthy.

Company of Canada last year had net earnings of $21,062,315.

Chrysler Corp. wrote its financial story in red ink. Taking in all of its subsidiaries, Chrysler's net earnings loss was $33,824,565.

The trend is toward small autos, easy on the pocketbook.

Two leading B.C. auto dealers are following the trend. Clarke-Simpkins Ltd., Vancouver, has checked its Mercury-Meteor-Lincoln franchise for a variety of 16 imported cars, buggies, all in the low-price range.

Now National Motors of Victoria is bidding "au revoir" to its Ford franchise.

Logan Mayhew, president of National, says that 50 per cent of all cars purchased in Victoria are imported models. He should know but to the casual observer Mr. Mayhew's slide rule is tilted.

The reason is mathematical. Ford alone sold 142,187 passenger cars in Canada last year. Of Chrysler's total car sales of 528,012 it could possibly be said that if 5 per cent were sold in Canada this would have accounted for 13,020 units.

Despite a drop in sales over 1957, Plymouth continues to be Chrysler's "bread and butter" car. Sales totalled 387,617 compared with 134,627 Dodge units, 38,043 De Sotos,

34,237 Chryslers, 13,488 Imperials and 7,280 Simcas—the imported "juicers."

It is no secret, however, that 1958 was not a year when auto dealers spent their spare time counting profits. Neither is it unknown that "low-priced" big cars are anything but in the eyes of the average wage owner. Some of the once-popular "low-priced" big cars are so low-priced they are threatening to make the "high-priced" models look like pikers.

On top of this, John Douglas, North American representative of Britain's Society of Motor Manufacturers, claims only 40,000 British models found their way into Canadian garages last year.

These figures suggest that while Canadians are looking more and more toward lower-priced cars, the big car market is still dominant.

Why Costly Experiment? Asks Shrum

By HAL MALONE

Why did the B.C. Power Commission proceed with a costly, experimental type of thermal-generating unit in the face of the worst energy shortage it ever faced?

The Shrum Royal Commission, investigating over-expenditures of power commission projects, wants to know.

Dr. Gordon Shrum, chairman of the royal commission, said Thursday he doesn't care who provides the answer—the power commission or Sandwell and Company Ltd., consulting engineers—"but we must have it."

$2.5 Million Over

He was referring to the power commission's Georgia Generating Station. At $15,850,000 it exceeded the original estimates by $2,550,000.

His demand for clarification came at the end of day-long testimony by R. C. McMordie, acting general manager of the power commission. In a lengthy brief he outlined the need for the Georgia unit—at Bare Point opposite Chemainus—and the reasons it cost more than the original estimates.

The Shrum hearings adjourned after Thursday's hearing in the Empress Hotel until next Wednesday at 9 a.m. Future witnesses will be A. H. Williamson of the financial firm of Wood Gundy Ltd., Mr. McMordie on the Strathcona development, and B.C. Electric vice-president Thomas Ingle-dow.

Again April 1-2

An attempt will also be made to have a representative of Sandwell & Co. testify. Dr. Shrum indicated that the royal commission will hold hearings April 1-2.

After hearing details of the over-expenditure at the Georgia thermal unit, royal commissioner John Dunsmuir said the answer (to the excess costs) "is bad estimating."

Said Mr. McMordie: "One can always approach the problem on that basis when the costs are higher or lower than the estimates."

Mr. Dunsmuir pointed to $110,000 the power body paid in federal sales tax, not in the original estimates.

"If you were in the merchandising business," said Mr. Dunsmuir, "you have to know what something is going to cost if you are going to be competitive."

Different Picture
"It is simple in the merchandising field," said Mr. McMordie. "In the capital construction field it is different."

Dr. Shrum said he felt that the power commission's decision to build the "unique" Georgia unit, based on a "great emergency to supply power... was a fundamental contradiction."

"All the way through your brief the emphasis is on the great need to supply energy," said Dr. Shrum. "Then on page 16 you admit the Georgia station is the largest of its type and is one of the few to be built anywhere... requiring entirely new design developments."

"I would like to know why in an emergency the power commission would have this complication increased by new designs never done before."

Poor Timing
"Seems like a poor time to be experimenting," added royal commissioner William Anderson.

In his brief, Mr. McMordie said the power commission decided to go ahead with the Georgia plant early in 1956 because of:

Delays in securing a licence and authorization to store water in Buttle Lake;

The phenomenal load growth on Vancouver Island—400 per cent between 1952 and 1957; and,

No assurance that energy would be available from the mainland.

Outlines Functions

From the long range viewpoint, he said, the Georgia plant, will fulfil the following functions:

1. It will supply power and energy during years of deficient water supply and may be regarded as "extending the function of storage reservoirs;"

2. It will provide spare capacity which can be brought into production during periods of routine maintenance or unexpected breakdowns;

3. It will meet peak demands during short periods. Dealing with over-expenditures, Mr. McMordie said changes in plant requirements during design cost $850,000; delivery delays in getting the gas turbines and operating difficulties added another $1,000,000; rising labor and material costs boosted the bill by $550,000.

Additions to plant requirements, not in the original estimates, and later considered desirable tacked $1,700,000 on the plant costs.

COMING to Victoria March 23 is E. H. Ely, president of the Investment Dealers' Association of Canada. Accompanying him on coast-to-coast trip of member firms is Harry Gassard, director of education. Mr. Ely plans to meet with government and civic officials.

Ganges Man Wanted Year to Pay Fine

A Salt Spring Islander who asked for a year's time to pay a $25 fine was turned down flatly in Saanich police court Thursday.

Stanley H. Hawkins, of Ganges, pleaded guilty to a charge of failing to provide his car with 1959 licence plates before midnight, Feb. 28, and told Magistrate William Ostler there were "extenuating circumstances."

He went into a lengthy explanation of how he and his wife had wintered in Mexico after retiring recently from Calgary and were not able to buy new plates before they got back to Salt Spring Island, March 1.

The only reason he drove his car—without realizing the old plates had expired—was to act as a "good Samaritan" in taking friends to Victoria March 1, Hawkins said.

Magistrate Ostler told him it was unfortunate, but even good Samaritans must pay the fine.

"I wish to protest," Hawkins said.

"I don't wish to be discourteous to the court, but I think it's most unfair. After Manhattan Island, now the centre of New York City, was discovered by Henry Hudson in 1609.

50 years of driving without having a ticket..." and Hawkins went on to say something about the inflexibility of the law.

Magistrate Ostler reminded him of his earlier statement that he did not wish to be discourteous and suggested that he say no more.

"I wish time to pay, Your Honor."

"How long do you ask?"

"As long as possible."

"How long do you ask?" the magistrate repeated.

"A year."

"Given one week to pay."

Wishy-Washy Gov't Policy Knocked by Hospital Head

The provincial government's "lack of firmness" in policy statements concerning financial assistance was scored Thursday by Mrs. C. C. Warren, president of the Gorge Road Hospital board of directors. She told the annual meeting hospital facilities were expanded in anticipation that the government would implement its rehabilitation program.

Two New Contests Set for Autorama

NO 'NSF' HERE

He Draws Coal Out Of 'Bank'

NANAIMO (CP) — By day Al Addison is a real estate salesman, by night a cowboy singer with his own 15-minute radio program and when he can, he works the Big Flame coal mine.

The Big Flame is 800 feet of tunnels starting from a portal about 400 feet up the west side of a timbered ridge a few miles south of here.

He bought the 30-year-old workings three years ago from Seattle interests.

He says he will never make a fortune with the mine, but he manages to draw out 15 or 20 tons of coal a week which he sells in Nanaimo for $20 a ton.

"When I want extra money I go and draw out some coal. I've got a bankful of money down that hole," he said.

open to Victoria youngsters, club officials announced today.

The display of hot rods and custom cars will be in the Victoria Curling Club rink May 22 and 23.

First contest, open to students of Greater Victoria Junior and senior high schools will be for a cover design for the program for the show.

$15 PRIZE

The cover will measure 8½ by 11 inches, and entries will become the property of the Quarter-Milers and will not be returned. First prize will be $15, second and third $10 and $5, and deadline is April 18, Rod-Stevens, EV 2-5366, can provide further information.

Six trophies are offered in the other competition for model hot rods and custom cars, to be finished by April 20. Class A will be for model makers of from 12 to 15 years, and Class B for those of 16 and older. Prizes in each class will be for the best custom, semi-custom and hot rod.

The best 20 models will be on display at the T. Eaton Co. store prior to the Autorama, and will have a place in the main show. Bob Clark, EV 3-6429, has further information for competitors.

"Now, a variety of reasons are being given for delaying action," she said.

The hospital last year operated at a $6,486 deficit. Because the only source of income was from patient fees, these rates had to be increased in January, she said.

They were boosted from $165 to $180 for the wards, from $185 to $205 for semi-private rooms and from $210 to $235 for private rooms.

"We cannot emphasize too strongly the fact that so long as we are denied BCHIS coverage, it cannot be expected patients are willingly going to pay our rates as against $1 per day at the acute hospitals."

Mrs. Warren was re-elected president; R. C. Phipps, vice-president; J. C. Nimmo, treasurer, and Mrs. Florence Mutrie, secretary.

VISITING VICTORIA Tuesday will be the new provincial commissioner for the B.C. Boy Scouts' Association, Brigadier W. G. H. Roaf. He will attend quarterly meeting of the local group. Named to the post Jan. 28, following the resignation of Dr. Desmond F. Kidd, he was formerly district commissioner of the Vancouver Metropolitan Scout Council.

HOW YOUR LIVER BILE BREAKS DOWN FAT

Laboratory tests have now proved that liver bile emulsifies fat... actually breaks it down. It is an established medical fact that when liver bile is added to fatty solids, the fat is broken down and forms a smooth, easy-flowing mix.

In your body, precious liver bile helps break down fat the same way. Many foods reach the digestive tract as undigested fatty solids. Your golden liver bile helps break down this fat... unblocks it... for easier and more complete digestion.

Carter's Little Liver Pills exclusive formula of natural, vegetable ingredients relieves irregularity gently and effectively. At the same time, it actually improves the flow of liver bile needed to break down fat in your body.

So when you feel sluggish, headachy, nervous and need a laxative, get Carter's Little Liver Pills. Remember, Carter's not only relieves irregularity, but actually improves the flow of liver bile needed to break down fat. Only 43¢.

MAYOR CONCERNED ABOUT OVER-ALL EFFECT

8.2% Hike for City Hall Staff

A conciliation board has recommended an 8.2 per cent increase for City Hall inside staff.

City Hall Employees' Association had asked 14.41 per cent and city council argued that no increase should be given.

Effective from March 1, the increase would add about $35,000 to this year's costs. If it sets the pattern for other city workers the total wage boost would be nearly $210,000.

Mayor Percy Scurrah said "if this becomes a pattern the results can be very serious."

The conciliation board award is binding on both sides.

Thomas Smith, president of the City Hall Employees' Association, said he would be satisfied with the award if a recommendation for a further salary survey is implemented.

MYTHOLOGY

Dynamic symbol of mythology, clouds and lightning are just as appropriate for representing a Scotch whisky of particular excellence, Grant's Stand Fast.

Water from the clouds courses diamond clear down Highland streams to Grant's own stills where it makes Grant's whisky so soft to the palate; and lightning symbolises the heat which coaxes peat heather into adding just the right tinge of smokiness to the brew.

Mrs. Duncan Psychopath But Not Insane—Expert

VENTURA, Calif. (AP)—A psychiatrist says Elizabeth Duncan's personality is like that of most alcoholics, drug addicts and sex deviates. But, Dr. Louis R. Nash adds, she's not insane.

His testimony came in the penalty phase of Mrs. Duncan's murder trial although the question of sanity is yet to come.

Biology Lesson To Fur Farmer Costs Him $15

Five people were fined $15 each in Saanich police court. Thursday, when they pleaded guilty to operating fur farms without a licence.

One man, William Beekhuis, 1690 Burdon, denied he was operating a commercial farm, although he was in partnership with another man.

"There are only 10 animals," he pointed out to Magistrate William Ostler.

"There might be more in due course, you know," the magistrate observed.

Others fined were Ann Massey, 672 McKenzie; William Moore, 3803 Marilyn; George Palmer, 1630 North Dairy and Cedric O. Smelcer, 2707 Richmond.

Most said they were unaware a licence was necessary, others that they kept chinchillas as a hobby.

Nash, a court-appointed psychiatrist, had been called by the defence, which hopes to establish that Mrs. Duncan is mentally so unstable she should not be put to death.

A jury of eight women and four men last Monday convicted Mrs. Duncan, 54, of hiring two men to kill her son's bride, Olga Duncan, born in Dauphin, Man., and later of Vancouver. The jury now must decide her penalty: Life imprisonment or the gas chamber. Afterwards, it will consider her secondary plea of insanity.

Nash gave this description of the defendant:

"Mrs. Duncan is a maladjusted individual, impulsive, egocentric, immature emotionally, unable to stand frustrations, unable to maintain her emotional equilibrium and independence during major or minor stresses.

LOYAL TO MOTHER

"She has been a severe problem to herself and to society for many years. This all adds up to... a psychopathic personality."

Earlier, the defendant burst into tears when her son, Frank, 30, testified in an emotion-choked voice:

"As much as I've been humiliated and hurt here, I'd still pick the same mother."

Earlier Mr. Duncan admitted that she doesn't know how many times she has been married.

Logan, 70 miles south of here, after firing two shots at police. He had planned to use Mrs. Elma Baldwin and her children as a wedge to force the release of Burton Junior Post from the state penitentiary.

Payne had vowed death to Post and threatened torture and death to his hostages if his demands were not met. The two men were cellmates for 17 months of Payne's seven years in prison.

KIDNAPPING CHARGE

Payne was released from prison eight days ago. Today, the 23-year-old, heavy-lidded young man faces kidnapping charges.

Payne said he had planned the kidnapping for about two weeks but didn't select the Baldwins as his victims until he went to their home—three doors away from his house—and gained admittance on the pretext of wanting to use the telephone.

The Baldwin family car was spotted late Thursday by State Troopers J. E. Asbury and R. C. Stover.

They radioed ahead for help and Cpl. M. S. Hofstetter, detachment commander at Logan, took station on the edge of the city to intercept Payne.

JUST DROVE AROUND

Mrs. Baldwin said she and the children were in the car most of the time, driving around. She said Payne occasionally would stop the car and just sit for as much as an hour—one time for three hours.

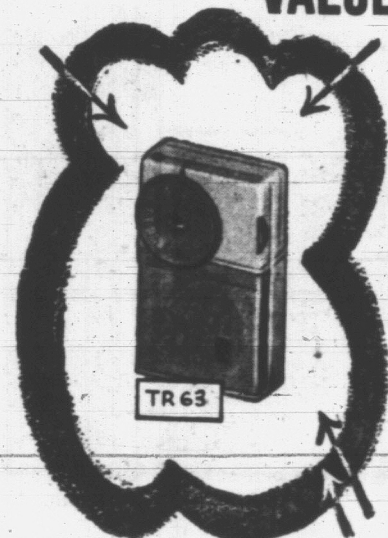

She said the children didn't realize the seriousness of the situation. "They thought they were on a trip," she said. "It was a big adventure for them."

Payne did not harm his captives. "I couldn't have killed them after I got to know them," he said later.

"It was the most horrible experience I ever had, Mrs.

Baldwin said. "I guess it could have been worse though. After all, he was nice to all of us and never tried to hurt us."

Evidence of High Speed In Traffic Fatality Trial

Testimony that a car traveling between 50 and 80 miles an hour and containing three occupants "shot four feet into the air" after striking an island in the middle of an intersection was given in Assize Court Thursday.

Cattle Stray, Owners Fined $25

For the second time within a month the wandering heifers of a Munns Road family have cost the owners a police court fine by being at large.

Harold Bukin pleaded guilty to the charge in Saanich police court Thursday and was fined $25.

On Feb. 26 Mrs. Anna Bukin was fined a total of $45 for allowing the same cattle to be at large and damaging the same neighbors' property.

Court was told Thursday $40 damage to flower beds was caused at the home of Patrick A. Codyre, 1890 Munns, when the cattle entered the property.

THEY WERE HIS

Bukin said he couldn't believe his cattle had gained the Codyre property as he believed them to be up a nearby mountain at the time, but when taken by a constable to the neighbor's place, he agreed they were his.

Since then he said he had installed 3,800 feet of four-strand wire fencing to completely enclose his own property and that the cows would never get out again.

"I think you have reason to be thankful for your neighbor having put up with so much trouble," Magistrate William Ostler said.

"He's been astonishingly patient and even now he asks no restitution. You've certainly had sufficient warning."

"This is the last occasion on which the penalty will be so light."

Labor Seeks Bigger Share Of Ship Work

The provincial government should pressure federal authorities to allot a greater share of ship building work to this area, Victoria and District Metal Trades Council spokesmen said here Thursday.

Appearing before the Legislative Standing Committee on Labor, currently studying unemployment, metal trades chairman J. McConachy, also felt the government should work to establish a steel industry in B.C.

"At the present time iron ore is being mined on Vancouver Island 200 miles from the local shipyards; shipped to Japan, manufactured, then shipped back to Victoria for fabrication," he stated.

Avenue, was giving evidence during the trial of Patrick Norman Morrison of South Burnaby, a B.C. Pilotage Authority captain, accused of criminal negligence in the Aug. 21 car smash at Douglas and Trans-Canada Highway.

A passenger in the car, Capt. William Boyce, of Vancouver, died as a result of injuries sustained in the mishap. Morrison, the driver, and Capt. John McKay, of Vancouver, were seriously injured.

Steel said he was driving towards Victoria at the time of the accident at 11:30 p.m.

JUMPED FOUR FEET

"When I stopped at the stop sign at the intersection," he said, "a car passed me at a high rate of speed—at least 50 miles an hour, not more than 80—drove straight through the stop sign, hit the island and shot four feet into the air."

"It landed on the other side of the intersection, breaking a lamp standard."

Cross-examined by defence counsel Alan Macfarlane, witness said he saw no difference between the words "guess" and "estimate" during argument over the speed of the death car.

Another motorist, Barbara Hitchen, of Elk Lake, testified that a car with three men in the front seat passed her car on Douglas Street coming up to the intersection "at a terrific speed."

VANISHED IN DUST

She said at Ralph and Douglas the car slowed almost to a standstill, straddling the centre white line, then "shot off" toward town. Later she saw a car hitting an island at Douglas and the Trans-Canada Highway "in a great cloud of dust."

Evidence that all three men in the car had been drinking whisky the day of the accident was given by a friend, Capt. Bert Higgs, 3743 Waring Place, Cadboro Bay.

He said each of the trio had two drinks, "maybe three," at a Victoria club, then another drink of whisky each at his (Higgs') home. The three men were bound for a fishing trip, he told the court.

Replying to Mr. Macfarlane, witness said the three men were "entirely sober" when they left his house to go fishing.

Prosecutor is A. E. Bigelow, assisted by Louis Lindholm. Assisting Mr. Macfarlane is R. C. Ellis. The case is being heard before Mr. Justice H. A. Maclean.

GOVERNMENT HOUSE OPENING DAY DELAYED

Official opening of the new Government House will be delayed beyond the March 31 deadline set earlier by Public Works Minister W. N. Chant.

He told the Legislature Wednesday that the project was held up by strikes last year and now there is a delay in the supply of interior woodwork.

"I had expected the end of this month. Now I don't think we will make the grade." He said there is no time penalty in the contracts.

Girls' School Pool No Luxury

Public Works Minister W. N. Chant said in the Legislature Wednesday that he was "very surprised" at CCF criticism of the amount of money spent on the new Girls' Industrial School at Burnaby.

The school, to be opened March 26, is estimated to have cost $1,400,000.

"The CCF members usually accuse us of spending too little money," Mr. Chant said. "Now they say we are spending too much."

"The school was built according to recommendations made after a great deal of study in accordance with modern-day requirements."

"We do not consider such things as swimming pools unnecessary," Health Minister Martin said. "When girls become unhappy and dissatisfied they become violent and tend to be destructive. That is the trouble we had at the old girls' school at Cassiar Road."

"It is totally inadequate and is one of the most dismal in B.C."

Replying to CCF members who considered the swimming pool a luxury, Mr. Martin said: "A swimming pool is the centre of recreational life in these institutions."

What every new car buyer should know about the LARK by Studebaker

Q. Is the Lark a "small" car?

A. Definitely not. Although 3 feet shorter (and therefore far easier to manoeuvre and park), the Lark's interior space is comparable to any conventional North American car. (Headroom is 36 inches compared to Buick's 34.7 inches, legroom is 44 inches to Edsel's 42.7 inches.)

Q. How do Lark prices compare with other cars?

A. They are about half way between the average for smaller imported cars and the lowest priced models of leading North American manufacturers.

Q. Was the Lark designed as an "economy car"?

A. No. The Lark was conceived as a happy blend of luxurious comfort and common sense. Quality and good taste are evident in every detail of both exterior and interior trim. Fabrics and colors are fashion-approved by Harper's Bazaar.

Q. Why, then, is the Lark so economical to own and operate?

A. Because intelligent design makes possible savings in manufacture (which are passed on to the buyer), as well as economical ease of service and repair. Also, as Studebaker's traditionally trouble-free engines don't have to haul useless "dead" weight, you enjoy excellent gas economy.

Q. Does the Lark come in a variety of models?

A. Yes—a range to suit every need, taste and budget. You may choose from 2-door and 4-door sedans, hardtops and station wagons... all available with either V8 or 6-cylinder engine.

Q. What standard features set the Lark apart from most other cars?

A. There are many, including electric windshield wipers, variable rate front coil springs, extra large safety brakes.

Q. What optional extras can you get on the Lark?

A. A selection comparable to higher priced cars: automatic transmission, over-drive, twin-traction, power brakes and steering, hill holder, special deluxe trim, reclining seats, etc.

Q. How well is the Lark selling?

A. This is the success story of the year in the automotive industry. Studebaker's percentage of new car sales is double that of '58. Demand in both Canada and the United States has forced repeated increases in production. The Studebaker dealer organization has been expanded, with corresponding improvement in availability of service.

Q. What kind of people are buying the Lark?

A. All kinds. People in all income, age and occupational brackets are attracted by its unique combination of sense and sophistication. It's in demand by big business too, for fleet use. The Lark is at home in any surroundings.

The Lark's appearance, performance and durability give it a friendly, happy and likable personality. It's a "fun" car that's also as practical as anything on wheels. There's nothing else like it on the road.

All questions about the Lark are best answered by a test drive.

How Does It Look, Earl?

What's in store for tomorrow? That's what fullback Bill Bamford (left) and goalie Archie McMillan of Gorge Hotel soccer team want to know while coach Earl Barnswell uses soccer sphere for a try at the old crystal ball routine. They will be more serious

Saturday afternoon when Hotelmen take on Vancouver Capilanos at Royal Athletic Park in Province Cup semifinal. Owing one of the strongest defenses in Victoria circuit, Gorge will be laying 13-game unbeaten streak on line. Game time is 2 p.m.

THE SCOREBOARD BY Harry Grayson

TAMPA, Fla.—Jim Norris, in rare form and voice, walked into the Rocky Point Beach Restaurant and offered to wager anybody present $5,000 that Floyd Patterson would not box Ingemar Johansson this year.

That Bill Rosensohn has settled down to be Cus D'Amato's private promoter, and has the fight scheduled for June 23 in New York does not faze James Douglas Norris.

"I have Eddie Ahlqvist (Johansson's adviser) in my pocket," he said. "Ahlqvist signed for a return match with Eddie Machen. He also contracted to box Pat McMurry. He'll hear from both of them if he moves to fight Patterson first."

"Let's lay it on the table. Sonny Liston is my fighter. I believe he's the best of the lot. I have offered Joe Vella and Suey Welch, who have Charley Powell, $15,000 to box Liston. The winner would go big against Cleveland Williams in Houston."

"Let 'em fight. That's what I say. I want to clearly establish who is best. Then I'll chase Patterson across the country until I corner him and find out whether he can really fight."

Norris dropped into the restaurant, seven miles out from Tampa, rather late in the evening. It was an unusual place to bump into Big Jim, whose activities at this time of the year ordinarily are confined to the Gulfstream Park and his farm at Coral Gables.

Frank Carbo, wanted for a business conference with New York District Attorney Frank Hogan, reportedly was in Tampa. But nobody brought that up as Norris barged over to the table.

Norris said he was going to see Lou Viscusi, who lives in Tampa, but he really had crossed the state to see his nine-year-old daughter compete in the Tampa Horse Show. Viscusi has Joe Brown, lightweight champ, Roy Harris and Cleveland Williams.

Norris said he had not seen either of the heavyweight matches at Miami Beach (Liston-De John and Powell-Valdes), explained that his doctor would not permit that.

"I'm a sick man," he said. That was the excuse for not appearing before the New York Grand Jury or answering the page of District Attorney Frank Hogan.

For a man whose International Boxing Club was ordered dissolved by a federal judge, Norris mapped an extremely active pugilistic program.

"I'm making the matches," he told those at his table. Asked if Cus D'Amato still owed $16,000, he replied in the affirmative.

"And I'll get it," he said. "D'Amato could be hit by a streetcar, you know."

Powell, who quit the San Francisco 49ers to fight, moved into Norris' picture when he took out Nino Valdes at Miami Beach. A month or so before, Liston turned in an almost identical job against Mike DeJohn.

Williams, depicted as a fearsome heavy, is quite an attraction in Houston, where he has belted out a lot of garbage. Williams was flattened by Bob Satterfield way back, and he ran out of a match in England last summer. He explained he "got strange messages from beyond." He is a picture boxer, but many wonder if he can take a solid punch.

"The trouble with managers is that they don't like to take a chance," Norris said. "Now that he has knocked out Valdes before a nation-wide television audience, Powell can get matches considerably softer than one with Liston. I'll admit a fighter tackling Liston is flirting with disaster. But, where else can Powell get $15,000 for a fight?"

Anybody who suspected Norris had divorced himself from boxing left the table with different ideas. The man is conducting a hot war against D'Amato.

Coast Juniors Square Western Hoop Series

WINNIPEG (CP)—Vancouver YMCA, in a strong team effort, Thursday night swamped Winnipeg IPAC Buffaloes 69-47 to tie their best-of-five series for the Western Canada junior basketball championship at 2-2.

Winnipeg won the first two games by one-point margins, both in overtime, and Vancouver took the third Wednesday 81-73. Final game of the series is tonight.

Rookie Hunt Candlish, with 19 points; John Hyndman, with 18, and Ed Terris, with 17, led the Vancouver attack. Bob Seepish was top scorer for Winnipeg with 10.

Vancouver led at the half 45-20, mainly on the strength of superior rebounding and strong individual efforts by Candlish—who scored 15 of his 19 points in the first 20 minutes—Terris and Jerry Lorenz.

The YMCA squad built up its 25-point lead with a strong shooting display which saw them connect on 46 per cent of their field goal attempts, while Winnipeg's shooting average was a meagre 15 per cent.

Winner of the series travels to Hamilton, Ont., for the Canadian junior final, a best-of-five series which opens Monday.

MEET GORGE SATURDAY

Capilanos Shine With Coast Stars

Gorge Hotel booters face a rugged chore Saturday when they meet star-studded Vancouver Capilanos in the semifinal round of the B.C. Province Cup soccer series at Royal Athletic Park.

Playing coach Alan Sawyer's lineup will host eight names that are due to crop up in Pacific Coast Soccer League action for two mainland entries.

Signed by Carlings in the PCSL are goalie Fred Briscoe, Frank Noga, Ernie McLaren and Norm and Gordie McLeod. Representing New Westminster Royals will be Stu Crossan, Harry Price and Art Bennett.

Gorge coach Earl Barnswell has a small problem in having too many top-flight players to choose from.

UNBEATEN SKEIN Most of his trouble is at centre forward where he is swaying between Bill Abbott and Cliff Newman. Newman stepped into the spot when Abbott was injured some time ago and has paced the team from seventh to second place in league play on 12 wins and one tie.

Ab Travis will be on one wing with Chummy Crabbe on the other. Insides will be Ian Holroyd and Bob Mars.

At halfback, Barnswell will be using Alan Blair between Harold Holroyd and Bob Clark. Fullbacks will be Bill Bamford and Bill Hope, with Archie McMillan in goal.

Sunday, Canadian Scottish and Heaneys tangle in the first game of the Victoria and District Football League playoffs at Heywood Avenue Park. Gorge and Esquimalt meet next Sunday in the other half of the series.

Both weekend games start at 2 p.m.

The teams were Slezan-Opava, Vitkovice Ironworks and Spartak Prague Sokolovo. Period scores were 2-1, 2-3 and 4-1.

Bart Bradley and Lou Smrke scored two goals each for the Belleville team, while George Gosselin, John McLellan, Moe Menard and Dennis Boucher scored one each.

Colwood Par Test

Mrs. G. L. Hay finished two-up on regulation figures Thursday to lead silver division swingers in a women's par competition at Royal-Colwood Golf Club.

Mrs. E. R. Rickinson, all-square with par, topped the bronze division with Mrs. R. Ditchburn in the runner-up spot.

Selke Says 'Best' Goalie Will Be in Canyen Nets

Use of Substitute Could Affect Three-Team Fight

MONTREAL (UPI)—Montreal Canadiens will have "the best goaltender available" in the nets when they play their last two games this weekend against Boston Bruins and the New York Rangers as the torrid fight for the fourth and last National Hockey League playoff position seems certain to go right down to the wire.

Regular Canadiens netminder Jacques Plante was sidelined Thursday against Toronto because of a boil on his chin and the Maple Leafs had little trouble beating the Canadiens, 6-3, with substitute goalie Claude Pronovost and Claude Cyr in the nets.

The change in netminders upset Detroit Red Wings general manager Jack Adams because Montreal managing director Frank Selke Sr. said before Thursday's game that in fairness to the New York Rangers, fighting to hold on to the fourth and final playoff spot, Plante also would be kept out of Sunday's final game of the season in New York.

Toronto's win over the Canadiens moved them to within one point of the Rangers. Both teams, along with last place Detroit, have two games left. Any one of the three teams could make the playoffs at the expense of the other two.

Adams complained about Selke's statement that a substitute backstop would play against New York Sunday, even if Plante were ready to play. League rules provide that a team must play the best man available.

"If Plante couldn't play tonight there is no reason to believe he will be able to play Sunday," Selke said after Thursday's defeat. "But you can be sure that we will play the best goaltender available, both Saturday against Boston and Sunday night against New York."

Jacques Agreed With the Doctor

However, it appeared that Plante would be a very doubtful starter. Although some observers minimized Plante's trouble, the club doctor, Dr. Lawrence Hampson, instructed Plante and the club that the Canadiens netminder should not play Thursday. In addition, Plante himself said he was in no condition to play.

Plante, who has never been overly strong, also resisted pressure from coach Toe Blake to play. In fact, the final decision to sit out the game against Toronto—or any other game—lies with the player. Part of the agreement reached between the players' council and the club owners left such decision strictly up to the players.

A spokesman for the Canadiens said that it would be to the advantage of Canadiens themselves to have the best goalie possible in the nets in their last two games.

"After all, we don't want to take any unnecessary chance that (Andy) Bathgate might score four or five points against a substitute goalie and beat out Dickie Moore or Jean Beliveau for the scoring title," said publicity director Frank Selke, Jr. "And I'm sure that Plante would want to be in there to protect his lead in the Vezina Trophy race; if he feels he can play."

Charlie Hodge likely will be named if Plante is still unable to play.

"It is too early to say anything definite yet," said the senior Selke today. "Certainly Plante's condition wouldn't change that much overnight and we will just have to wait and see. We most likely won't know until tomorrow."

Starting Netminder Had Jitters

The Leafs plastered five goals behind the jittery Claude Pronovost—most of them comparatively soft—in the first two periods.

A junior, 20-year-old Claude Cyr, from Ottawa-Hull Junior Canadiens, was in the Montreal net in the third period and performed well.

"We should have had a change made one period sooner," said Selke. "I didn't realize how nervous and unsteady Pronovost was."

"Hodge is our regular reserve goalie, but he was out of town with Montreal Royals of the Quebec League and we named Pronovost."

"We are certainly trying to win all our games, and if Plante is still unfit to play tomorrow, it looks now as if Hodge will replace him."

Dick Duff, the first of the Leafs to score 20 goals, scored his 27th and 28th. George Armstrong became the sixth Leaf to reach the circle when he scored one. Bobby Pulford added his 22nd goal.

Soccer Interest Continues to Rise

EDMONTON (CP)—The Canadian Soccer Football Association will hold its 40th annual general meeting here Saturday and Sunday.

The association held closed meetings Thursday, and planned more for today, to pave the way for the general meeting.

Dr. V. J. Hagen, Winnipeg, president, said the growth of soccer in Canada "continues to be gratifying and sound" and indicates greater growth to come.

George Anderson, Winnipeg, secretary-treasurer, released figures which supported Dr. Hagen's prediction.

The 1958 season saw Canada's registered clubs increase by 46 to 397, exclusive of minor and school soccer. Registered players increased by 1,038, to 9,203, making a two-year increase of 2,886 players. Minor clubs in Canada, including schools, totalled 1,112

Bert Olmstead and Gerry Ehman rounded out Toronto's scoring.

TIMES OPEN GOLF

Sorry if You're Late But the List Is Full

Sorry, but if you haven't submitted an entry for the Times Island Open Match Play golf tournament, it's too late now.

Vancouver Island divoters again stamped their approval of the annual event when they filled the entry list in less than two days.

Entry forms for the tourney were printed in the Times Tuesday evening and Victoria and District Golf Association secretary Leo Derman announced at noon Thursday that the entry limit of 120 had been reached.

Derman said he was unable to accept entries received after Thursday morning's mail delivery. Since a few places are being reserved for Up-Island golfers, because of the time difference in mail deliveries, Derman expects the number of starters will be slightly above the intended limit.

Qualifying rounds of both the open and handicap divisions of the Times tourney will be played at Victoria Golf Club April 5. Match play competition will continue each Sunday at the four major Victoria-area courses.

ASSIST COUGARS

Totems Extend Helping Hand

It's all settled as far as Victoria Cougars and the rest of the Coast Division clubs in the Western Hockey League are concerned.

But it's a different story in the race for playoff positions in the loop's Prairie Division. Spokane's last hope of nudging the Cougars out of third place ended at Seattle Thursday night, when the Spokes blew a 4-2 lead and eventually dropped a 5-4 decision to the Totems.

Seattle's victory assured Victoria of third place and took the pressure off the Cats, who wind up the home-ice portion of their regular schedule against the Spokes, at the Memorial Arena, on Saturday night.

Cougars will open their best-of-five Coast Division semifinal at Seattle next Friday. The series will move to Memorial Arena the following night and shift back to Seattle Sunday.

Spokes and the second-place Vancouver Canucks launch the coast semi-finals Tuesday night at Vancouver Forum. The clubs clash again at Vancouver Friday and then the series switches to Spokane.

The picture is somewhat more muddled on the Prairies, where Winnipeg and Saskatoon open a crucial home-and-home series tonight.

The pressure is on the Warriors since Quakers lead the race for third place by two points. If the duel winds up in a tie, the final prairie playoff spot will be decided by a sudden-death game Tuesday. In that case, the semifinal will start at Edmonton Friday.

If there is no tie, the best-of-five semi will open Tuesday and continue at Edmonton Thursday. The winner will meet Calgary.

With two games remaining, Spokane could pull even with Victoria in total points by winning their final two games while the Cougars drop their last two outings. However, the Cats would be awarded the position on the basis of a better won-lost record.

Cougars, who will be striving to nail down a clear-cut claim to the third spot at Memorial Arena Saturday, will also be trying to help Al Nicholson set a new Victoria scoring mark.

Nicholson has a total of 84

BOXLA BOYS MUST LIKE WAY THIS PAIR WORKS

The top ranks of the Greater Victoria Box Lacrosse Association will have familiar look for another year.

Doug Fletcher was named president for the 17th time in 18 years and Charlie Thomas was elected for his 18th consecutive term as treasurer at the boxla association's annual general meeting Thursday night.

Other officials named at the meeting were Roy Woolsey, first vice-president; Hee McNeill, second vice-president; Alex Macdonald, third vice-president; Frank Holmes, secretary, and Tom Jennings, registrar.

OUTDOOR REPORT BY Doug Peden

Deer hunters in the southern portion of Vancouver Island can expect to operate under a bucks-only law again this year. Huddled at Nanaimo last Sunday in their annual session for making recommendations on hunting regulations, representatives of Island fish and game clubs favored similar seasons and bag limits to those in effect last fall.

Despite a record hunting kill last year, there seemed little reason to make any notable changes in deer regulations since Island herds have again benefitted from a mild winter and seem destined to show at least small increases in most areas.

Possibly indicating that the Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association is gaining ground in its battle to end the shooting of antlerless animals in all areas, was the fact that the proposal that only bucks be legal targets in the southern part of Vancouver Island and on Salt Spring received support this year.

Last year, representatives of the Victoria and Salt Spring clubs had their proposal rejected by the Island group and carried their fight to the B.C. Federation of Fish and Game Clubs and to the game branch before obtaining protection for does and fawns in the lower section of the Island.

It was a close vote, but this time the motion was adopted and will be presented to the annual B.C. Federation meeting as an Island proposal.

Recommendations Usually Adopted

There is no guarantee that the game branch will go along with the plan, but recommendations made from the provincial association are usually adopted and it was stated last year that the bucks-only law south of the Koksilah and San Juan rivers and on Salt Spring would be retained until one side or the other was proved wrong.

Delegates voted to recommend that the practice of allowing a short season on antlerless animals at the end of the regular deer season again be in effect in other sections.

Turned down at the meeting was a Victoria proposal that a bounty on cougar be brought back into effect and a suggestion that willow and blue grouse open at the same time.

Adopted for presentation at the B.C. meeting was a suggestion to issue licences in the form of calendar punch cards, which would be marked when birds or animals were bagged and would record season totals for each sportsman. Also adopted was a recommendation to have all firearms licences set at $4 with an increased fee for big game tags. This would do away with the present system of issuing both general and big game licences at different prices, which causes a bookkeeping headache for the game branch, and offer a substitute for the government plan to bring in one licence at a flat $5 fee.

The meeting was probably the best ever for the Island group, which is now composed of 15 clubs with the inclusion of a new club from Tahsis and the return to the fold of the Salt Spring organization.

Trout fishing is picking up all around the Island and fly casters are beginning to pick up fish at several lakes and a few streams.

Reports indicate that the best catches on flies have been recorded at Dougans, Shawnigan and Somenos lakes, although trolling and bait fishing are still the most productive methods.

Flies are taking a fair number of trout at Cowichan River, where a few steelhead have also grabbed a mouthful of feathers.

The March run of steelhead at the Cowichan, averaging around eight pounds, may have hit its peak Wednesday. Fishing was excellent in the middle portions of the river and Herman Mayea filled his limit in less than an hour.

Salt water fishing is unpredictable although there are good numbers of grise around.

The small salmon, now getting around the blueback size of three pounds, have been hitting in flurries at Saanich Inlet. One of the best areas has been between Senanus Island and Cole Bay, where the little scrappers have been grabbing bucktails greedily at times.

Probably the best catches of grise are being taken on the old reliable spinner and worm, which seems to be the only combination that will entice the grise frolic off Crofton.

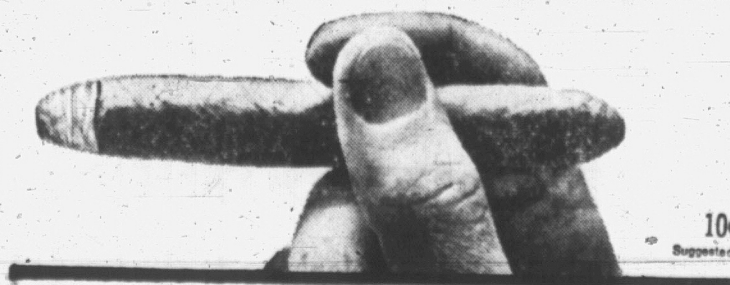

There have been no reports of success, but spin fishermen looking for a place to flip lures might try Billings Spit at Sooke Harbor at a change of tide. This is the time of year when grise and sea-run cutthroat trout often go on feeding sprees off the spit. The best bet may be the start of a flood tide.

The zaniest of ventures are making sense today to major leaguers who are trying to beat the worst Florida spring training weather in the memory of Arizona's Chamber of Commerce.

An unprecedented week of rain has scrambled early pitching plans, deprived many promising rookies of a chance to make good, and even caused two teams to quit Florida in favor of Havana, Cuba. The situation became so desperate Thursday, that:

—Los Angeles Dodgers and Cincinnati Reds decided to leave the mainland and make a 200-mile jump to Havana for a pair of hastily-scheduled games.

NEW SHOES

—One manager offered to buy new baseball shoes for players who ruined their stomping through mud puddles around the team's playing field.

—Another team drove 30 miles in a bus to work out in a livestock pavilion.

—Four other teams, desperate to play providing the rain stops, scheduled spring training doubleheaders.

To the four teams training in Arizona it was all a big joke, however, because their schedules are up to the minute, Boston Red Sox rolled to their 10th win in 11 games by beating Chicago Cubs, 2-1, at Mesa, Ariz., and the San Francisco Giants hammered out five homers to top the Cleveland Indians, 9-6, at Phoenix.

The Dodgers and Reds, idle since Sunday, got together and agreed to head for Havana.

THANKS, SOLLY!

Solly Hemus, of the St. Louis Cardinals, was the manager who promised to buy new spiking shoes for players who ruined their running in wet grass or mud. Hemus explained some of the younger players couldn't afford $25 for new shoes but that he wanted them to get in some running. He also pointed out that Bing Devine, general manager, would pick up the cheque.

The Tigers, idle for the third straight day, drove 30 miles from Lakeland to Bartow to conduct a sheltered workout for pitchers and catchers at a livestock pavilion.

Meanwhile, back at the western ranches where baseball is being played: The Giants hit four of their homers off fireballer Herb Score, who was blasted for seven runs in four innings. Andre Rodgers paced the San Francisco assault with two homers. Jack Sanford, acquired from Philadelphia in a winter trade, shut out the Indians for four innings but yielded three runs when he tried to go a fifth frame for the first time this spring.

Half Way Opens Playoff Tonight

Halfway House, Victoria's Coast senior "B" basketball champions, open a two-game total-point series for the provincial crown at Kamloops tonight.

The second game against Kamloops Clothiers will be played Saturday.

In addition to assistance from their regular sponsors, the Victoria club received aid for the trip from Island Tug, King Bros. D. & D. Tire, Warren Tug, Don Mee, W. Spearshot-VMD, George Straith, Individual Cleaners, Colony Motel, Mellow Spot, Seven-T Kitchen and Knott & Elford.

Ex-Light Heavy Contender In 'Satisfactory Condition'

PAISLEY, Scotland (AP)—Trinidad's Yolande Pompey, who once fought for the light heavyweight title, Thursday was reported in "satisfactory condition" following a knockout.

The 29-year-old boxer was taken to a hospital after he was knocked out in the final seconds of a 10-round bout Wednesday night with Scottish champion Chick Calderwood. A hard right to the head sent Pompey crumpling to the canvas. He lay still there for seven minutes while doctors worked over him.

"I don't think there is any immediate danger," a hospital spokesman said Thursday after Pompey was given a thorough examination. Pompey's manager, Jack Burns, said: "He must retire from the ring. This is the end for him. I pleaded with him to retire after his last fight but he begged for this one last bout."

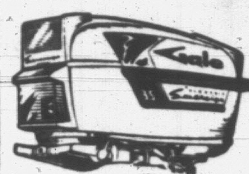

Pompey has lost three of his last four bouts.

THEY'RE WORRIED SICK

British Books Ready to Run

LONDON (UPI)—The Irish were optimistic but the bookmakers were worried sick today on the eve of the Grand National steeplechase, the world's most gruelling horse race.

Irish horses have won this event four times in the past six years and Mr. What, who scampers to a 20-length victory in the 1958 running, is a hot 5-1 favorite to outleg the field again Saturday.

Mr. What is an Irish candidate, owned by D. J. Couglan, trained by Tom Taaffe, and ridden by Taaffe's son, Toss.

The $40,600 purse which will be split between the winner and only a drop in the bucket compared to other fortunes which will be won and lost on this 117th edition of the Grand National.

FORTUNES AT STAKE

The race annually attracts world-wide interest because an Irish Hospital Sweepstakes is based on the outcome. It also serves as the second leg of Britain's popular spring "double." This is where the bookmakers come in.

Many bettors have coupled Marshal Pil, winner of Wednesday's Lincolnshire Handicap—the first half of the double—with several favored entries in the Grand. One bookmaker reportedly will have to pay out more than $800,000 if Mr. What wins.

Faced with the possibility of making gigantic payoffs in the double, many bookmakers have asked their clients to get in touch with them with a view to "hedging" on some of their wagers.

However, the bookies do have history on their side. Only 15 favorites and five co-favorites have been successful in the previous 116 runnings of the Grand National. In fact, the odds are 4-1 against a horse

Victoria racing fans will be able to listen to a broadcast of Saturday's Grand National Steeplechase at Aintree, England.

The race is scheduled to start at 7.15 a.m. and an account will be carried over CBU radio (690 kilocycles) from 7 until 7.30.

Three-Hour Fight On Compensation

Higher Benefits Approved in House But CCF Still Unhappy With Scale

The B.C. government's amendments to the Workmen's Compensation Act, increasing allowances to widows and children of workers killed or disabled passed third reading in the legislature early today after a heated three-hour debate.

TSAWWASSEN CONFIRMED AS TERMINAL

Tsawwassen, about five miles south of Ladner on the Point Roberts Peninsula, definitely will be the eastern terminus for the fast ferry service to be started by the B.C. government next year.

Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi said engineering studies for the construction of the wharf to be built at a cost of about $3,000,000.

The government could build a wharf at White Rock for half the cost, but this would make the ferry route nine miles longer, adding $300,000 a year in operating costs.

Western terminus will be at Sidney.

Gibbs Protests Use of Surplus To Retire Debt

P. A. Gibbs (Liberal-Oak Bay) protested in the legislature Thursday against the appropriation of $12,250,000 in revenue surpluses to reduce the provincial debt.

"This money is being taken out of the taxpayers' pocket," said Mr. Gibbs. "It should not be used in this manner and I protest this appropriation."

CCF Leader Robert Strachan also protested.

"This money should be going to school boards, municipalities and various other bodies that will be needing additional funds during the next 12 months."

"The money they need should come from these revenue surpluses."

The debt reduction appropriation was voted through by government members over the protests of Mr. Gibbs and Mr. Strachan.

Germans Make Deal For U.S. Aircraft

BONN—(Reuters)—West German Defence Minister Franz-Josef Strauss signed contracts Wednesday for the purchase and licence rights of American Lockheed F-104 jet Starfighters.

A West German defence ministry spokesman said 66 planes will be bought, including some two-seater trainers, and a further 200 will be built under licence in West Germany. Delivery of the American-built planes is expected to begin by the end of the year. The total cost involved is not yet known but is expected to run about 1,500,000,000 marks ($357,000,000).

FIRST TIME IN 15 YEARS

Jubilee 'In Black'

Royal Jubilee Hospital board of directors heard Wednesday that the hospital, for the first time in 15 years, was in the black.

While the annual report showed a $2,034 deficit, a $15,000 payment from the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service put hospital finances ahead.

Board president, Courtney Haddock, said "the board has worked hard in an effort to raise revenue and reduce expenses."

The University of Alberta was established in 1905, and the University of Saskatchewan in 1907.

FOREST ACCESS ROADS STUDY SET

Lumber Firms Bar Hunters, CCF Says

A special committee has been set up to study the use of forest access roads running through land held by logging and lumber industries. Recreations Minister Earle Westwood announced in the legislature Thursday.

"We know there are vast sections of desirable recreation land which cannot be reached because there are no proper roads or because the roads are owned by the logging industries," he said.

"The special committee we have set up is working in conjunction with the lands and forests and highways department."

Mr. Westwood was answering a complaint from Randolph Harding (CCF, Kaslo-Slocan).

RIGHTS QUESTIONED

Mr. Harding said the logging companies often keep hunters and fishermen out of recreational areas by closing access roads. In some cases, he added, game warden had these roads opened for a while—then they were blocked again.

"What are the rights of the individual in this respect?" asked Mr. Harding.

Mr. Westwood said the B.C. fish and game department had done "a tremendous job" of securing the co-operation of logging companies in opening their roads to sportsmen.

"The department assumes a certain amount of responsibility in seeing that the people who use these roads are the type who will respect the owner's interests and reduce fire hazard."

"The problem of access roads is receiving constant attention," the minister said.

FEWER WARDENS

Leo Nimsick (CCF, Cranbrook) complained that the number of game wardens in the province had been reduced in spite of the "huge revenue" derived from game and fishing licences.

He warned that in a bad winter the supply of game would be reduced if the animals did not receive adequate protection from the wardens.

Mr. Westwood said there was no intention to reduce the number of game wardens. It was just a matter of securing replacements in some areas.

He assured the House that new recreational areas are under constant survey. The lands and forests department placed a reserve on lands which appeared suitable and the recreation department then surveyed them.

"Any such areas which prove unsuitable are turned back to the lands and forests department," Mr. Westwood said.

THE PAS, Man. (CP) — Sandy Moose, 31, of Cranberry Portage, Man., Thursday was sentenced to be hanged June 18 after he was convicted of murder in the Christmas Day beating death of his 25-year-old wife Josephine.

An all-male jury deliberated three hours before returning a guilty verdict. They issued a strong recommendation for leniency.

Mr. Justice Ralph Maybank of the Manitoba Queen's Court bench said he would pass on the recommendation to federal authorities.

114 'Sayings' Attributed To Christ Found in Egypt

NEW YORK (AP) — A French scholar disclosed Wednesday night the discovery of a document in Egypt containing 114 sayings attributed to Jesus. The sayings—many of them previously unknown—are contained in a document known as the Gospel of St. Thomas.

Existence of the document was disclosed by Dr. Oscar Cullman, professor of early Christianity at the Sorbonne in Paris, is a lecturer at Union Theological Seminary here.

The document, Cullman said, is "comparable in importance to the Dead Sea Scrolls and of even greater significance to students of the New Testament."

The Dead Sea Scrolls were discovered in 1947 by Bedouin herders near the west coast of the Dead Sea. The scrolls predated by 1,000 years all other Hebrew codices. A portion of the scrolls contain what is believed to be the earliest copy of the Ten Commandments.

He said the document was one of 44 treatises found in 1946 by Egyptian peasants in an old tomb cut in limestone cliffs about 60 miles from Luxor. Written in the Coptic language, the treatises were divided among 13 leather-bound, papyrus books which had been placed in a jar.

QUOTED IN GOSPELS

Cullman said many of the sayings found in the treatises could be traced word for word in the four Gospels of the New Testament — Matthew, Mark, Luke and John.

Among hitherto unknown sayings quoted by Cullman was:

"Jesus said: If those who lead you say to you: Behold, the kingdom is in heaven, then the birds of heaven will precede you; if they say to you that it is in the sea, then the fish will precede you. But the kingdom is within you and it is outside of you."

Contents of the document, Cullman said, were revealed by Dr. Henry Charles Puech, professor of early Christianity at the College of France in Paris, who will publish them sometime this year.

Welsh Society Meeting

Meeting of the Welsh Society will be held tonight at 8 at 902 Government.

Unlike the canonic Gospels, Cullman said, the Gospel of Thomas does not give any personalized information about Jesus.

Cullman said he noted four kinds of sayings in the document:

Those which are word for word the same as in the canonic gospels.

Those which provide the independent variants to the sayings in the canonic gospels.

Yard Up Against GemMaster-Mind

LONDON (UPI)—Scotland Yard hates the term but for the first time in years there seems to be a "master mind" operating in the underworld.

Whoever this man is, he seems to be behind such well-planned crimes as the theft of $420,000 worth of jewelry from Lady Docker and the robbery of $28,000 worth of gems from film star Lauren Bacall.

He is also believed involved in the continuing series of post office and bank robberies, many of which show an ability for organization far beyond that possessed by known criminals.

Detectives suspect that recent jail breaks are part of his program to free imprisoned crime experts needed for future projects.

Scotland Yard's big worry is that the master mind might decide to quit before he makes his last move.

Major criminals have made in its long history. Interpol—the International Police Force—is helping it ferret out the loopholes through which loot leaves Britain and the fences abroad who receive it.

BUSINESSMAN GOES TO BAT FOR TEAMSTERS

A prominent city businessman Thursday spoke up in behalf of the much-maligned Teamsters' Union.

Hugh Stephen, past president of Victoria Chamber of Commerce, told Rotary that he had "negotiated 12 contracts with the teamsters and always found them fair."

"When they say it's a deal, it's a deal," he commented, in thanking speaker Ken Martin. "That kind of assurance means a lot to management."

CNR Strike 'Definite Possibility'

MONTREAL (CP) — W. E. Gamble of the firemen's union said Thursday that a strike against the CNR is a "definite possibility."

He made the comment after the CNR accepted the findings of a federal conciliation board on the railway's year-old contract dispute with the firemen's union.

The board proposed higher wages for firemen and said firemen no longer need be hired for use on diesel yard and freight engines, although present firemen should be protected.

"I see no reason for being optimistic," said Mr. Gamble when asked in an interview whether the union would call a strike over the findings of a federal conciliation board.

He made it plain, however, that before any strike decision is made, the feelings of the union members will be sounded out in a series of meetings across Canada.

The first sound-on-film moving pictures were shown by Lee de Forest in the United States in 1923.

'Name-Calling Must End'

Labor and management in B.C. were called on to halt name-calling and criticism Thursday by industrial relations expert Ken Martin.

The Vancouver Management Research (Western) Ltd. associate said the two groups must "stop pointing the finger at each other."

"By getting up and saying these things time after time we widen the rift in labor relations."

Speaking at a luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club in the Empress Hotel, he praised the provincial government's new labor legislation.

"They did a good job in selecting a few things that needed doing... but I do not think it will bring industrial peace."

"The only key to peace is understanding and you cannot legislate understanding."

Mr. Martin doubted we would ever attain complete industrial peace.

"I don't think it is necessarily serious," he said, "since it can only be done by collusion (between labor and management) and that is not too desirable."

'NONSENSE'

Turning to the issue of American-controlled unions in Canada, he said there "has been a great deal of nonsense talked about this matter."

"Canadian unions have received a great deal of help and guidance" from them, he said.

"Where control is being exerted, it is being exerted for the good of B.C. unions and B.C. industry."

Mr. Martin said education is the cornerstone of good industrial relations. He hoped to see the University of B.C. as an unbiased institution, try to bring labor and management together.

SOLUTION MONDAY

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Sammy Davis, Jr., at his sensational Copa opening—which had ringsiders Lucille Ball, Charlton Heston, Red Buttons and Keely Smith cheering—soft-pedaled Frank Sinatra's feud with him.

It stemmed from remarks Sammy made on Chicago disk jockey Jack Eigen's show. Some people construed them as being unkind to Frank and Sinatra has refused to speak to Sammy since, despite Sammy's desire to renew the friendship.

Introducing his impersonation of Sinatra, Davis said, "He's the number one man of show business... and in this moment of controversy I want to say he has always been, and will always be, my idol."

Later Sammy mentioned to friends he'd heard from Sinatra, "through intermediaries."

"He said, 'Tell Charlie not to worry,'" Sammy related. "When Frank calls me Charlie, things are OK. When he calls me Sam he's sore."

When Tom Poston takes a drink on the Steve Allen show, it's not always tea or water—sometimes the company (as a joke) slips him a real snort (scotch, rye or vodka). He's just hoping they never let humor carry them away and slip him a mickey. After reviewing the Ohio National Guard, Gov. Mike DiSalle ordained, "Millions for defence, but not one cent for a uniform for the Commander-in-Chief."

Joan Crawford trotted around the floor giving out rhinestones as part of Carol Channing's act at the San Francisco Fairmont. So Carol told Joan and Al Steele that henceforth she'll give out Pepsi-Cola. Sam Goldwyn recently told his greatest contribution to the motion picture industry: "I got the nickle-deons to raise their price from a nickel to 10 cents." Sam has also said, "My wife Frances is the best man who ever worked for me."

Then there was this burglar whose wife hounded him for money. "Okay," he snarled (as J. O. Jewett tells it), "Quit nagging and I'll go out and get you some as soon as the bank closes."

Playwright Harry Kurnitz has made a game of the Hilton hotel names, starting with the Moscow Comrade Hilton, Pisa's Tilton Hilton, Brooklyn's Milton Hilton, Tel Aviv's Schmilton Hilton, Tokyo's Hiro Hilton and, for Bonn, the Adolf Hilton. Jan Murray tells of a fellow who had a platonic friendship with a gal. He married her for fear he'd fall in love with her.

Intellectual joke: Fellow went to a bar and asked for a Martini. "You mean a Martini, don't you?" asked the bartender. Customer snapped, "If I want two, I'll tell you!"

THE MIDNIGHT EARL—Buddy Hackett lost 10 pounds in 10 days, dieting at Duke University, will stay another week. Zsa Zsa Gabor swapped autograph photos with Vice-Pres. Nixon, described him as "a sweet, bright, all-American kid." Alan Ladd's young son David recorded some rock 'n' roll tunes. Alec Guinness wanted Oscar Homolka for "Our Man in Havana," couldn't get him out of "Rashomon." Kim Novak's theatre-date beaux include Dr. Ernest Wynder, the surgeon.

Earl's Pearl: It's bad enough for a man to get trapped into marriage—but these days some of the bait is artificial.

Today's Best Laugh: Someone described a lush: "The last time he was sober was when he voted to repeal prohibition."

Wish I'd Said That: The boy who got a wrist watch when he was graduated from high school now has a son who wears one to kindergarten. Quote.

Milton Berle read about Hawaiian statehood and recalled the line about how the flag will look now—39 stars and a pineapple. That's Earl, brother.

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe. Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Peggy Kennedy, aged 12, of Spokane, Wash., for her question:

What Is a Dingo?

The shepherd hates the wolf and the rancher hates the coyote. In the same way, the dingo is hated in Australia. All the wild meat eaters, the wolf, the coyote and the dingo are threats to man's domesticated herds and flocks. The wolf and the coyote are not found in Australia, but the dingo is a very close relative of the wolf.

In spite of his bad reputation, he is a very handsome wild dog. He is about three feet long plus another 12 inches of bushy tail. His soft coat may be tan, rusty red or golden yellow. But his toes and tip of his fluffy tail are always white. He is a swift and powerful dog with a mouthful of sharp white teeth.

The native animals of Australia are the gentle, salad-eating marsupials. Before the white man came, dog dingo found life there very pleasant. All but few of the marsupials, such as the big kangaroos, were easy victims for him.

Perhaps no, meat-eating animal in the world was better fed.

The strange animal life of Australia attracted a lot of attention. Experts tried to explain it by studying fossils dating back millions of years. The story gathered from these fossils explains why most of the marsupials were the most advanced of all animals and the carnivores had not yet arrived to prey upon them. Australia broke away from a larger land mass. At that time, the marsupials were the most advanced of all animals and the carnivores had not yet arrived to prey upon them. Australia broke away from a larger land mass. At that time, the marsupials were the most advanced of all animals and the carnivores had not yet arrived to prey upon them.

For though the fossils of the marsupials date back for millions of years, the bones of the dingo date back no farther than 40,000 years. Millions of years ago, Australia was a part of a larger land mass. At that time, the marsupials were the most advanced of all animals and the carnivores had not yet arrived to prey upon them. Australia broke away from a larger land mass. At that time, the marsupials were the most advanced of all animals and the carnivores had not yet arrived to prey upon them.

Bounty Placed on Dingo

On their safe island home, the marsupials flourished. Then, perhaps about 40,000 years ago, men arrived and with them brought their half-tamed dogs. Some of these dogs ran wild and became the ancestors of the dingo.

In Australia there is now a price on every dingo's head. Even so, a few people have taken the trouble to understand him. They tell us that he is not hard to love. He is, after all, a dog with a doggie affection for the human family. Taken as a pup he makes a true and loyal pet.

The dingo does not bark like a dog, or howl like a wolf or coyote. He gives a few sad yelps and a long sorrowful wail. Perhaps his sad voice expresses the sad fact that he is not adopted by the human family as a true dog should be. And, as an enemy of the herds and flocks, dog dingo's lot in Australia is not likely to improve. In fact, with a price on his shaggy head, he may some day become extinct.

Andy sends a Hammond's International World-Globe to Jane Gilbert, age 11, of Shreveport, Louisiana, for her question:

What was the earth named after?

The most common everyday things were named long ago. People had a name for the earth long before our language was born. Our language changed, grew and developed through the ages. Some of the very ancient words came along with it. However, in most cases they went through changes on the way.

The history of our word earth goes back to a similar word in ancient Greek. It was changed a little and used by the Germanic peoples of ancient Europe. It was adopted into Anglo-Saxon with still more changes, and then into Middle English. We would not recognize our word earth as it was used in ancient days and the people of past ages would not recognize the way we speak or spell it.

It is not clear whether earth originally meant the soil or the whole world. Today we can use it either way. But, it seems, the earth was not named after any person or for any other object. It has always had the meaning or meanings it has today.

Plane Lands On Highway, 2 Uninjured

HOPE (CP)—A small private plane was demolished when it struck a traffic sign as it made an emergency landing on the Hope-Princeton Highway, nine miles east of here.

The pilot and a passenger were not injured. Pilot Tom Milburn, of Vancouver, said he and Richard Vogt, also of Vancouver, were on a flight from Penticton to Vancouver when a sudden cloudburst cut visibility over the mountainous Hope area. The Cessna 172 hit a traffic sign as it tried to land on the highway.

Milburn estimated damage at about $10,000. The plane was removed from the highway in less than an hour.

Queen Contestants Sought by Jaycees

Deadline for entries in the Miss Victoria contest, sponsored annually by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, is April 1.

Bill Hughes, chairman of the queen contest, said today seven young beauties have said they will compete, and there are another seven-possibles.

C. Saanich Postpones Zoning Airing

BRENTWOOD — Central Saanich Council postponed a meeting on zoning here Thursday after former reeve Sydney Pickles led a protest from the floor of the meeting.

"Only when public opinion is intelligently discussed will we take action," the council stated.

Protest actually was launched against a proposed subdivision bylaw which would limit subdividing of agricultural land to parcels of at least five acres.

ILLEGAL

Mr. Pickles started action by moving adjournment of the meeting on grounds that it had not been "legally called under the Municipal Act."

Reeve H. Rupert Brown said the gathering actually was a council meeting at which rate-payers could express opinions. He was invited by Mr. Pickles to leave, in order that the rate-payers could conduct their own meeting, but refused.

"During the week of April 1, contestants will be 'weeded out' by a panel of five judges, so that eight will remain for the final judging at the Jaycee-backed Victoria Tourist, Industrial and Agricultural Exhibition here the week of May 8.

The lucky lass chosen Miss Victoria will be crowned during May 24 celebrations, and will get an expense-paid trip to Hamilton, Ont., to compete in the Miss Canada contest August 6-13.

SCHOLARSHIP

The queen here will receive a $100 scholarship, a $300 evening gown, and the chance to appear at the Pacific National Exhibition in the early fall.

Requirements for contestants: three years high school, be between ages of 18 and 26, a resident of Southern Vancouver Island six months and unmarried.

But they will have to be more than merely pretty. Talent, too, is required. As the finalists appear nightly at the exhibition, they will be required to demonstrate this talent in a three-minute talk, dance, or some other form of accomplishment.

If Miss Victoria should become Miss Canada, she'll receive a $1,000 scholarship, travel across Canada, a chance to participate in the Miss America pageant at Atlantic City, and a European tour.

Mr. Hughes wants to hear from young women who believe they "have what it takes."

He can be reached at EV 3-1106 or EV 3-2089.

B.C. ELECTION was predicted for this September by provincial Conservative leader Deane Finlayson, in Dawson Creek, Thursday. Finlayson is touring British Columbia constituencies.

Tories Hold Two Seats, Margifits Cut

LONDON (Reuters) — The ruling Conservative party Thursday retained its two seats in two byelections, one in England and the other in Northern Ireland, but both by reduced majorities.

In England's East Harrow constituency, Cmdr. Anthony Courtney with 17,776 votes won against Laborite Merlyn Rees, 15,546 votes, and Thomas Lynch, National Union of Small Shopkeepers, who got 348 votes.

In the Northern Ireland constituency of East Belfast, Conservative-Allied Ulster Unionist Stanley McMaster obtained 19,524 votes against 14,264 for Laborite James Gardner.

More Room Asked As MLA Quarters In Legislature

A complaint that there is insufficient room for the various political parties of the Legislature to conduct seasonal business was registered Wednesday by Randolph Harding (CCF, Kaslo-Slocan).

"Much of the work of the elected members has to be done in hotel rooms. Something should be done to make more space available to the various parties," he told Public Works Minister W. N. Chant during discussion of works estimates.

He said he doubted there was adequate room for expansion. Public Works Minister W. N. Chant agreed.

"I realize this is true," the minister said, at a time when the present needs were unforeseen. He added, "It will be difficult to provide more space until there is more space for the various government departments."

Soldier Admits Cashing $25 Bad Cheque

A corporal in the PPCLI who used an allegedly forged service document to cash a worthless $25 cheque pleaded guilty to false pretences when he appeared in Saanich police court Thursday.

Jack Kenneth Dye, 646 Admirals, was remanded for probation report and sentence to next Thursday.

Det. Robin Stewart said Dye, using a service book which he "made up himself," cashed the cheque at a Safeway store at Burnside and Tillicum. The book was made out in the name of Ronald James Williams, court was told.

Circumstances surrounding the document are under investigation by the army. Det. Stewart said.

TRAFFIC FINES

In Saanich police court Thursday:

Frederick Snelling, Craigflower Court, and Donald Bennett Elliott, 1540 W. Burnside, $25 each for driving without licence plates.

Arthur Yale Allison, 710 Daffodil, $15 for operating a truck with insecure load.

Herbert Alton, 1811 Oak Bay, $35 for careless driving and $25 for driving without a licence.

Claude Arnold Brousson, 4474 Torquay, $25 for driving with the wrong licence plates.

Donald Marlow Champion, 20, of 1737 Hampshire, was court Thursday when he pleaded guilty to a charge of being a minor in possession of liquor.

In Colwood police court, Wednesday, John Greenwood Harrison Ash, 2835 Peatt, and Harry Melvin Dawson, no address, $35 and $3 costs each for careless driving.

Victoria Daily Times Silhouette Contest

Silhouette Contest Rules

1. The Silhouette Contest is simple and easy to work. It consists of 60 silhouette drawings of widely known persons and 120 pictures. All you have to do is identify the silhouettes, not by name but by pairing them with pictures of the people you think are portrayed in the silhouettes. Each person shown in silhouette will be shown by picture but not necessarily on the same day. In addition there will be 60 pictures of other persons who will not be shown in silhouette drawings. Thus you will have 120 pictures from which to make your 60 selections to go with the 60 silhouettes. Keep the 60 left over pictures. They will be needed for the Final Silhouette Scramble.

2. The contest starts on Saturday, March 7, 1959. Each day for 60 days one silhouette and two pictures will be printed. After you have paired a silhouette with a picture, paste or in some way fasten the matching pair on a single sheet of paper. All 60 sheets are to be fastened together in order and each sheet should bear your name.

3. The Times will award $750 in cash prizes to the winners. There are no entry fees. The prizes are:

1. $500

2. $100

and four prizes of $25 each.

4. The contest is open to all residents of Vancouver Island with the exception of employees of the Times and Victoria Press Ltd. and members of their families. Not more than one prize will be awarded in any one immediate family.

5. The final silhouette and pictures will appear on Saturday, May 16, and with this set will appear a master score sheet on which you must enter the numbers of your silhouette-picture combinations. Do not send in your entries until all silhouettes and pictures have been published.

6. The contestant getting the greatest number of the 60 regular silhouettes correctly solved is automatically the winner of the first prize. Second highest score gets second prize, and so on.

7. A Silhouette Scramble will be published with Silhouette No. 60. This will consist of a number of silhouettes which are to be identified from the 60 pictures left over from the regular contest. This Silhouette Scramble will be used by the judges ONLY in case of tie. If ties exist in the regular contest—then—those contestants making the best scores in the Silhouette Scramble will be declared winners.

8. Address entries to Silhouette Contest, Victoria Daily Times, 5631 Douglas Street, Victoria. All entries must be postmarked not later than Monday, May 25. Entries must be sent with first class postage fully paid, since The Times cannot be responsible for entries delayed because of improper address or insufficient postage, or for any other reason not received at The Times in due time.

9. By entering the contest, the participant agrees to accept the decision of the judges as final.

Fighting Ships Big and Little End Exercises

The four smallest and the four largest commissioned ships in the RCN's Pacific Command are back in port today after peacetime exercises geared to wartime conditions.

The "little fellows" are HMC Ships Fortune, James Bay, Miramichi, and Cowichan, units of the Second Canadian Minesweeping Squadron.

The "big guys" with a Sunday punch aimed at submarines are HMC Ships Assiniboine, Margaree, Fraser and Skeena, destroyer escorts attached to the Second Canadian Escort Squadron.

Wartime Conditions

Each group was carrying out operational exercises under conditions as near as possible to those encountered in wartime.

The "sweepers," under command of Lt. Cmdr. D. M. Waters, entered Esquimalt Harbor at 2 p.m. Thursday after two weeks of coastal minesweeping in the Oyster Bay-Campbell River area.

Their job is to keep harbor approaches clear of all types of mines.

The destroyers ranged farther afield and for a much greater length of time.

Aleutian islands, to Midway. At the peak of the storm, the ships recorded rolls up to 57 degrees.

And a joint USN-RCN hunter-killer exercise against submarines in the area between California and the Hawaiian Islands.

Lots of Company

The task group to which the Second Canadian Escort Squadron was assigned consisted of a 40,000-ton improved "Essex" class U.S. aircraft carrier, American destroyers, submarines, supply ships, and shore-based patrol aircraft.

Helicopters, anti-submarine planes and jet aircraft also took part in the exercises, which included refueling and re-provisioning at sea.

Simulated wartime conditions were carried out, with ships blacked out at night and "enemy" submarines attacking the task group, firing exercise torpedoes.

Two Weeks' Games

At one stage in the operations, Capt. Pratt took over as screen commander. The exercises lasted over two weeks.

The Fraser, Margaree and Skeena had taken part earlier in another joint USN-RCN operation, which also included RCAF maritime squadron 407, based at Comox.

While this exercise was taking place, HMCS Assiniboine officially joined the Pacific Command.

When the squadron left Esquimalt Jan. 13, senior ship was HMCS Crescent, a veteran of this coast.

Crew Transfer

At San Diego, officers and men of the Crescent transferred to the Assiniboine, which had steamed to California from Halifax.

Assiniboine went to sea as a "lone wolf" for a three-day working-up period before re-joining the squadron.

Shortly after leaving San Diego on the way home, the squadron carried out air defence exercises, followed by anti-aircraft and surface firing practice.

Fifteen thousand miles after leaving home, the four ships docked today.

City Firm May Bid On 'Big O'

Bids for the former Pacific Command cruiser Ontario, last of the six-inch-gun ships in the RCN, have been called by Crown Assets Disposal Corporation, Ottawa.

Bids are on where is, as is basis. It is believed a local firm, Wagner, Stein and Green, may tender on the ship.

Tenders are called for scrapping purposes only, and on condition it will be broken up in Canada.

Ontario is tied up at the Colwood Jetty, on the west side of Esquimalt Harbor.

No Liquor In Death Car

There was no liquor in the car that carried a marine pilot to his death last Aug. 21 at Douglas and the Trans-Canada Highway, Assize Court was told today in the second day of the criminal negligence trial of Capt. Patrick Morrison, another marine pilot.

Capt. John McKay, 36, Vancouver, testified driver of the car was Capt. Morrison, that the dead man, Capt. William Boyce, 41, of Vancouver, was seated next to the driver and he (McKay) was in the right front seat.

Defence counsel Alan Macfarlane asked: "Did you have any liquor with you?"

"No," said Capt. McKay.

"Any beer?"

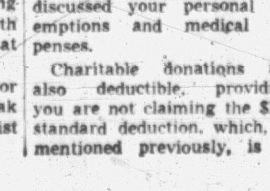

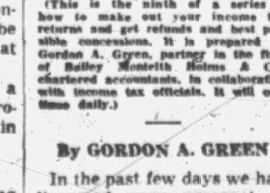

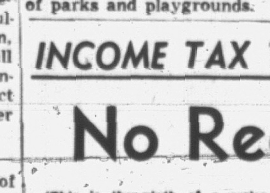

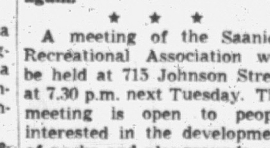

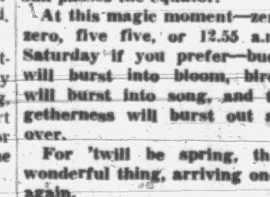

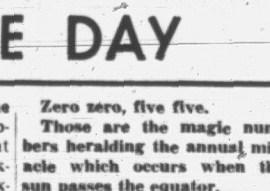

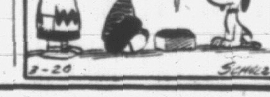

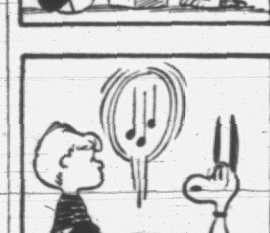

"No."

Away Two Months

Under command of Capt. J. C. Pratt, squadron commander of the Second, they returned at 10 a.m. today, two months plus one week after leaving for operational exercises in Alaska, mid-Pacific, and California waters.

There were two main highlights of the destroyers' cruise:

CAMERA LIES, SAYS ROCKLAND AVENUE DENIZEN

Harry Ordered to Tidy Up His 'Exclusive Junkyard'

MRS. LOUISA FALLOWS ... she's amazing

BIG DAY SUNDAY

Even at 99

Women Like To 'Tidy Up'

This Sunday Mrs. Louisa Ann Fallows of the Salvation Army Sunset Lodge will be just one year short of her own century.

The active 99-year-old chided the photographer for arriving early and said she "didn't have time to get tidied up."

Born in London, England, Mrs. Fallows came to Canada 34 years ago and has lived in B.C. for 21 years.

She moved to Victoria five years ago and settled down at the Sunset Lodge.

She lives in comfort with 26 other senior citizens, cared for by a staff of 10 workers.

OLDEST

The oldest resident in the home, Mrs. Fallows continually amazes staff members by her alertness and agility.

"You would never believe she was 99," said Major Emily Woods, superintendent of the home, "she's so active."

A suggestion that she couldn't walk as well as before was received with indignation by Mrs. Fallows.

"I can walk perfectly well," she said, "I only go out in the car for long drives."

As competent mentally as she is physically, she keeps up with the daily news in the papers and is keenly interested in world affairs.

Junk dealer Harry Haigh, who caused a furore in 1952 when he moved into the exclusive Rockland Avenue district, today was ordered by Magistrate William Ostler to clean up his property.

Haigh, who resides at 1586 Rockland, was found guilty of keeping a junkyard at his home.

The magistrate said he would pass sentence on Haigh after he had received a report on the cleanliness of the property in two weeks' time.

"My advice to you is to clean up as soon as possible the junk and material on your property," said the magistrate.

Haigh a resident of Victoria for more than 40 years, has been engaged in the salvage business for many years. He made a try for public office in 1951 when he ran for mayor. He also tried for an aldermanic post in 1952.

At his trial Haigh admitted being a junk dealer, but he said he did not keep a junk yard, nor had any need of one.

He explained his operation is simply picking up junk with his truck at various points, then taking it directly to buyers.

FOR OWN USE

He said the material found on his property was for his own use.

"Two and a half years ago, I lost the use of my hand and the other one isn't much good," he said, "I have a very untidy yard. I've been trying to get rid of it (untidiness) but I find it very difficult. I'm doing my utmost to get rid of it."

"Whatever is there, I put there for my own use," he added, "I have a very large house which is hard to heat and I burn in my furnace almost everything I can get my hands on."

He said he had 25 tons of coal in a variety of containers in the yard, and as each is emptied it is disposed of.

OLD TOILETS

"Some fellows think it is a big joke to dump junk in my yard," he said, "They've even dumped old toilets there."

Photographs taken by police showing the state of Haigh's property, were described by Haigh as "masterpieces of photography," because, he said, they depicted an "optical illusion."

Four of the pictures showed overlapping, or some junk viewed from different angles to give the impression, that there was more junk in the yard than there actually was, Haigh alleged.

AMY TO TRY ENGLISH CHANNEL IN TWO-WAY, NON-STOP EFFORT

Amy Hiland of Long Beach, Calif., one of the popular Juan de Fuca Strait swimmers in recent years, is looking for new seas to conquer.

Later this year she will try to cross the English Channel both ways non-stop. In the meantime she is trying to arrange some training swims during the summer.

Amy made the "short-crossing" of the Strait, from Port Angeles to William Head and fell just short of completing the main course. She was a prize-winner in the Junior Chamber of Commerce marathon three years ago.

The Jaycees said today they have no plans for reviving the Strait swim marathons.

FRIENDS CAN HELP DOCTORS

'Very Much Alone' Youth Faces Crossroad of Life

By TONY DICKASON

There's a Victoria youth in Vancouver's Crease Clinic today who is very much alone.

DAVID HARVEY ... still in coma

He hasn't come out of a coma yet following a delicate brain operation two days ago, but when he does he'll wonder who his friends are.

David Harvey is a former Victoria College student, but had to stop after the last Christmas term because of recurring brain trouble, caused by a fall six years ago. He is just 19.

Because of the injuries to his brain, David has had trouble leading the usually easy-going life of a youth his age. And at times classmates that were once friends drifted away.

"We don't know whether David will come out of this operation or not," said his mother, Mrs. Ted Harvey, 1817 Quadra.

"But if he does, we know he'd like to receive a card, or letter from some of his chums. It is important for him psychologically at this time."

MONTE ROBERTS

OUR VERY OWN ISLAND DIGEST

(Our Very Own Correspondents were asked to report on their communities' civil defence organizations.)

WOBBLE HILL, V.I.—Our local CD group has noted with interest that Sooke has stated it could easily cope with 10,000 evacuees from Victoria if the need arose.

As a matter of fact, our local CD group under the leadership of Lem Fudd met down to the pool hall to discuss this very matter.

After the meeting, which was attended by a small but active number of leading citizens, Lem made the following announcement:

"We, the leaders of the CD group, have carefully discussed this matter and we have decided it is all right for Sooke to go in for quantity, but we of Wobble Hill prefer to deal in quality."

"Therefore, we are drawing up plans for a specialized service for Victoria citizens who need to be taken care of."

"When our plans are completed, we will be ready to give assistance to all Victoria citizens aged 21 to 25, height five-foot-two, weight no more than 120, not necessarily but preferably blonde."

(Mr. Fudd and his fellow committeemen are bachelors.)

WALLOPEM BEACH, V.I.—The Wallopem Beach Civil Defence unit stands ready at all times to be prepared for any eventuality resulting from an emergency or other nasty situation.

As soon as there is an emergency, an emergency meeting will be held to discuss what to do.

Unless it is the off-season, like.

LUNCHVILLE, V.I.—The Lunchville CD organization is in high gear at all times, and assures the residents of Lower Vancouver Island they are welcome to evacuate to this beautiful vacation spot whenever it is necessary.

Even in the winter.

However, it is to be understood that if the emergency DOES arise in the winter, we will have to charge summer rates.

GOON CENTRE, V.I.—The attitude of Goon Centre toward civil defence was ably expressed recently by Mayor Abner Goon, the brilliant leading citizen of this hustling Island community.

During a social occasion at which he was one of the two honored guests, Mr. Goon said:

"I know all about civil defence, I have been on the defensive for 50 years."

Unfortunately, the other guest was Mrs. Abner Goon, and the occasion was the celebration of their golden wedding anniversary.

Mayor Goon is doing as well as could be expected. (The above dispatch was writ-by hand by our Goon Centre correspondent, Mrs. Abner Goon.)

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Greater Victoria Civil Defence Control Board today approved a $35,456 budget for 1959.

Of this, Victoria will pay approximately $4,500; Saanich, $3,100; Oak Bay, $1,200; Esquimalt, $835, and provincial areas, $760.

Federal and provincial grants will total about $26,100.

Biggest portion, $21,625, is apportioned for "personal services," that is, payment of staff.

Total spent last year was $32,889.

The junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will meet at 1:30 p.m. at the Monterey Restaurant parking lot on Saturday for an expedition to Mill Hill, Langford.

Dorothy Kirkpatrick, Keating Cross Road, previously fined for impaired driving, agreed in Saanich police court Thursday to drive only for business purposes for one year.

A meeting of the Victoria and Islands Branch of the Agricultural Institute of Canada will be held at the Experimental Farm Pavilion at Saanich next Tuesday at 8 p.m. This a special meeting devoted to gardening, horticulture, and vegetable production, and a panel presentation will be made under the chairmanship of Alan Littler, District Horticulturist for Vancouver Island.

A nominating convention of the Oak Bay Progressive Conservative Association will be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday at Willows School. Convention will choose a candidate to contest the provincial riding of Oak Bay in the next provincial election.

Humanist public meeting will be held at Woodsworth Hall, 721 Courtney, Sunday at 8 p.m.

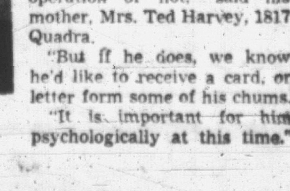

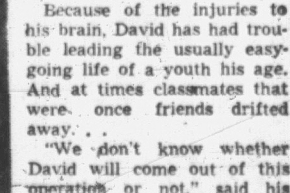

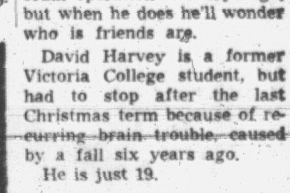

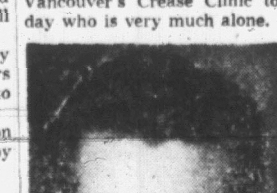

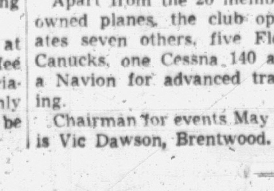

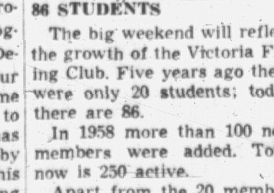

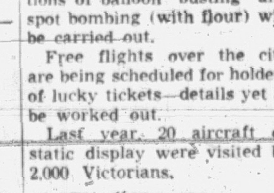

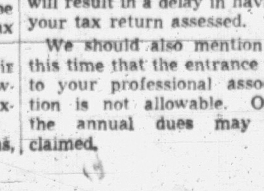

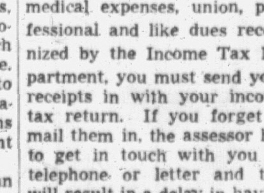

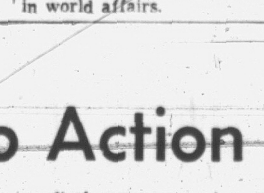

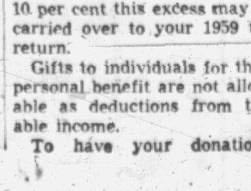

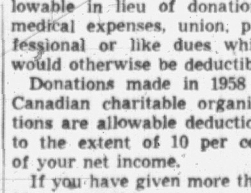

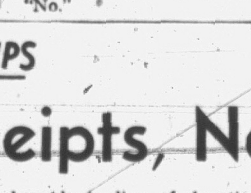

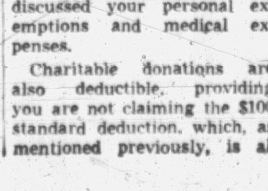

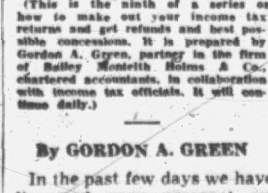

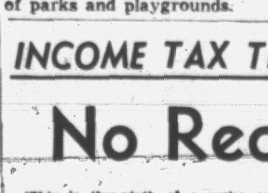

W. A. (Bill) Scott and labor leader John Nichol will speak on "The Dilemma of Capitalist Humanists."

Zero zero, five five. Those are the magic numbers heralding the annual miracle which occurs when the sun passes the equator.

At this magic moment—zero zero, five five, or 12:55 a.m. Saturday if you prefer—birds will burst into bloom, and togetherness will burst out all over.

For 'twill be spring, that wonderful thing, arriving once again.

A meeting of the Saanich Recreational Association will be held at 715 Johnson Street at 7:30 p.m. next Tuesday. The meeting is open to people interested in the development of parks and playgrounds.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Spicy, Real German Wieners, Sauerkraut—Mmmm... Gpö!

By PENNY SAVER

One of the easiest, quick supper ideas I've seen—and the most exciting, flavor-wise—is real German wieners! Double the size of what we usually think of (hot dog variety) as a wiener, these are made of special, highest quality meat, and spiced as only the Germans know how to spice.

These are thin-skinned fellows (no peeling necessary) and pre-cooked—just heat 'em up! A pound is 75 cents. The shop gets them in fresh twice a week—and almost guarantees you'll be back for more, if once you try them! Sauerkraut is flown in from Germany—and sold by the pound—17 cents.

Have you ever tried skate? Delicate, delicious flavor of this specialty fish resembles crab-meat—when boiled and cooled.

No bones about it! When cooked the central backbone becomes soft (and there are no tiny throat-sticker rib bones). Skate is just 30 cents a pound.

Mmmmm-mm! Rainbow trout! I've found a store that has them sent in fresh—his own order—from sparkling Idaho mountain streams.

Perhaps you'll say they're a luxury item—but a little bit of pampering never did anybody any harm! Trout are 90 cents each. (Worth the raves from hubby, don't you agree?)

Along the vegetable line, leafy Savoy cabbage (19 cents a pound), mild, tasty Spanish onions (25 cents a pound), cauliflower (35 cents a head), carrots (3 pounds, 25 cents) and fresh green beans (42 cents a pound) are the best choices for week-end meals.

If you are a green salad-lover, the most luscious looking Romaine lettuce I've seen this season is in town. With long, crisp leaves, huge, green heads are 29 cents.

For your week-end shopping, call me—perhaps I can locate some special item you have been looking for.

Wed At Elk Lake

Making their home at 1330 Hampshire Road are newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ian Hogarth. Couple were united at a ceremony in Elk Lake Baptist Church by Rev. H. Pike.

The bride is the former Anne Isabel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Edlund of Duncan, and her groom is the son of Major R. Hogarth, Victoria, and the late Mrs. Hogarth. Mrs. George Bell was matron of honor at the quiet family service, and William Edlund was best man.

TODAY'S RECIPE

HAM AND EGG ROLLS

Six eggs, 1/2 cup evaporated milk, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, 3 tablespoons butter, 6 thin slices cooked ham, 3 tablespoons minced onion, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 2 (8-oz.) cans tomato sauce.

Combine eggs, evaporated milk, salt and pepper; cook slowly in butter—until set, stirring occasionally. Divide scrambled eggs on ham slices, roll up and place in shallow casserole, cut side down. Sprinkle with onion, and Worcestershire sauce. Pour tomato sauce over rolls. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) 30 to 35 minutes or until thoroughly heated. Makes six servings.

Delegates—Mrs. H. Ketchell, Mrs. Blair Reid, Mrs. W. Mortimer, Mrs. J. L. Gates, Mrs. F. Decker, Mrs. I. Findlay, Mrs. J. Nelson and Mrs. H. I. MacKenzie were named delegates to the meeting of the Provincial Liberal Women's Association to be held in the city April 17, at meeting of the Liberal Women's Forum. Mrs. Ketchell presided. Mrs. Reid and Mrs. Mortimer gave reports on the Local Council of Women annual meeting, and Mrs. E. Varney announced that social committees were raising funds with their weekly card parties.

Hospital Auxiliary Head Loves Green... Any Hue

By Judy Nicholson

One look at the color scheme in the home of Mrs. Thomas Atkinson out on Saxe Point and you know that her favorite color is green!

"Every time I paint this living room," she laughs, "it's just a different shade of green. It's a standing joke in our family."

The Atkinson home is as bright as a spring garden... even if the predominant colors are pale green, medium green, and dark green. Mrs. Atkinson has good color sense and she mixes and matches the tones extremely well.

Besides her decorating talents, Mrs. Atkinson has other activities. For one thing, she's president of the Women's Auxiliary to St. Joseph's Hospital. This, she says, "keeps me hopping."

Many meetings of the auxiliary are held in the Atkinson home for "everyone seems to love this end of Esquimalt... perhaps because we're right by the sea," she says.

The home is surrounded by a rambling garden in which Mrs. Atkinson works when she has time. Beyond this is the wide expanse of ocean.

"We used to live on the prairies," this dynamic woman explains, "and when we came here we were determined to become seaside dwellers. I love the view. It's terrible the way I sit and gaze from our front windows, when there are so many other things to do."

But Mrs. Atkinson need not worry. She succeeds in doing all those many things.

She sews a lot both at home and with a sewing circle. She loves to cook, which is certainly a good thing as she is always being asked to contribute to home bake sales.

She's a grandmother, too. "I'm proud granny to five youngsters and I can't have them around enough," she laughs. Evidence of this statement can be found in a large rumpus room in the basement and a newly constructed swimming pool in the back yard.

"In our three families, my daughter's, son's and ours, there are three speed boats, too," explains Mrs. Atkinson.

Eastern Star Coffee Party

A sum of $170 was raised by the SOS Club, Queen City Chapter, No. 5, Order of the Eastern Star, at a coffee party held in the Hudson's Bay Douglas Room recently. Mrs. E. Noel, worthy matron, and Mrs. D. Jasper, president, received guests. Mrs. Jasper was the convener of the affair, assisted by Mrs. A. Westmoreland. Others assisting were Mrs. M. Holman, decorations; Mrs. N. Bell, Mrs. D. Mail, Mrs. M. Osborne, Mrs. M. Curry, door receipts; Mrs. V. Wallach, Mrs. M. Hibbert, Mrs. H. Hogg, Mrs. M. Bell, Mrs. H. Henderson, Mrs. M. Davey, Mrs. M. Stephenson, Mrs. L. Ogden, serviteurs; Mrs. K. Graham and Mrs. M. De Kelder, home-cooking table.

Missions Groups Show Large B.C. Membership

VANCOUVER (CP) — The B.C. conference branch of United Church Women's Missionary Society has 8,606 members in 224 auxiliaries, federations and affiliated societies, corresponding secretary Mrs. F. C. Freeman said this week. She told the branch annual meeting that members contributed $71,840 last year to carry on the work affiliated with the church.

The branch sent the Dominion board $70,849.

Mrs. R. A. Miller's report on community friendship indicated 50,984 visits were made throughout the presidency.

Mrs. E. R. Bewell's report on supply shows five tons of clothing and bedding were sent by 70 auxiliaries to Korea.

Convention — Mrs. G. Harling, president and Mrs. J. McGregor, standard-bearer, were named delegates from Ladies Auxiliary, Pro Patria Branch, No. 31, to the British Columbia and Northwestern States Provincial Command Canadian Legion convention to be held in Revelstoke in May. This was announced at recent meeting of the branch. Plans were made for a tea to be held April 3 with Mrs. J. Salloway convener.

WHY GROW OLD?

Depilatories Are Fine, But Check First for Allergy

FRIDAY QUESTION BOX

Q—"Please tell me how to remove some fine hairs from my face."

A. There are some very good depilatories on the market especially for this. However, you should try one on a very small area first to be sure that you are not allergic to the product, and you should not get the cream close to your eyes. Follow directions which come with the depilatory.

Q—"Please answer this. Does water make you fat? If you drink water after eating something sweet, does that mean that the sweet substance will go right through your body?" A. Water has no calories, and therefore cannot add fat. It does add to weight when it is retained in the tissues. If you are asking if sweets add no fat because they are washed away with the water you drink, the answer is "They do add fat." If you are reducing, you will have to give up the sweets for a while. Water will not wash the calories away.

Q—"I am 31 but look much older. I have puffy and flabby cheeks. If I dance or jump the skin just bounces. It is embarrassing! I am not overweight. I always have had a very loose scalp. Has this anything to do with my problem? Is there any answer except plastic surgery? The rest of my body is firm."

A. I shouldn't think that a loose scalp would have anything to do with it although I suppose there could be some connection. Facial exercises might be of some help. If you or any of my readers would like to have my leaflet on facial exercises, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 9. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Q—"I have white spots on my back. I did not have these when I was younger. Now they are spreading. What causes them and what can I do?"

A. This is probably due to a change in the pigmentation of your skin. I suggest that you see a skin specialist.

Crowded Skyways Coming When New 'Copter in Air

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Driving recently with a friend along the highway between Tacoma and Seattle, we passed the Boeing Aircraft fields.

"They are building a helicopter in there right now that will sell at the price of a good car," my friend said.

It sounded fantastic, but her husband happens to be interested in the 'copter, so it must be a fact.

My friend had been in the plant, she said, and had seen the 'copter.

The one that is taking shape now in the Boeing sheds is exactly what will be turned out in quantity before long, if air-minded people react as it is hoped.

It's a neat rig, according to my friend, and could be compared, she supposes, to the first popular-priced cars that hit the market with such acclaim more than 40 years ago.

How can the price be kept down? The 'copter will be run by compressed air. When the pressure builds up to a certain height the air will automatically shut off and you'll cruise along at a good height.

and speed until the pressure sinks below a certain level. Then the air will automatically go on again and stay on until pressure is built up.

Now, don't turn away with the thought that it isn't feasible. My friend assured me that the idea has been tested and passed. It is far beyond the experiment stage.

Price? "My husband thinks the first ones will sell at about five or six thousand dollars," my friend told me. "And he believes that if they are popular the price will drop considerably within a couple of years."

Which brings us to the thought that perhaps before long you'll be able to whip your private 'copter off the roof of your garage and take a quick trip to Seattle (where, of course, hotels and motels and even the big stores will be equipped with landing roofs) to select accessories for your new ensemble and be back in time to cook your husband's dinner.

What the skyways will be like, is another guess. Crowded, no doubt. There will be an airlines traffic control system you can be sure and somewhere concealed in the clouds will be ghost planes ready to pounce on the speeders.

Bright Flowers Decorate Church For Wanda Gray's Wedding Day

A profusion of tulips, narcissus, daffodils and hyacinths decorated the Church of St. Andrew in HMCS Naden for the recent marriage of Wanda Alexia, daughter of Lieut. Alexander Gray and Mrs. Gray, of Esquimalt, and Ronald Coutts Rothnie, son of Mrs. W. C. Rothnie, Vancouver, and the late W. C. C. Rothnie.

Rev. H. Todd conducted the double-ring ceremony.

Escorted up the aisle by her father, the bride wore a full-length nylon taffeta gown en train. Bodice had a deep-scooped neckline, lily point sleeves and the skirt was full and flowing. A front panel at the neckline was encrusted with aurora borealis on embroidered lace. Her chapel-length veil misted from a coronet of pearls and rhinestones. Only jewelry was a string of pearls borrowed from her maternal grandmother. The bridal bouquet was of red roses and white hyacinths.

Emerald green tones featured the crisp nylon tulle gowns worn by bridal attendants. Miss Donna McLeod, Miss Anne Eyoifson, Miss Isabelle Leggett and Mrs. P. T. Glynn. All wore white feathered bandeaux, white lace gloves and carried bouquets of yellow roses and white carnations.

Darryl Moodie was best man and ushers were Norman Brown, Peter MacKay and Ray Johnson.

Wallace Room, in Holyrood House, was setting for the reception.

Mother of the bride received guests wearing gold sheath style dress of pure silk, small hat of white feathers and turquoise brocaded dress, white accessories and a corsage of gardenias.

Red roses, white candles and a three-tier wedding cake graced the bridal table. Top decoration of cake was on parent's wedding cake. Newlyweds cut the cake with naval sword belonging to bride's father.

R. A. Myles, Lynn Creek, B.C., who was best man for the bride's parents, proposed the toast.

Leaving on a wedding trip to Oregon, the bride wore a sapphire blue dressmaker suit, light blue-topcoat and navy accessories. Her hat was of white feathers and she had a corsage of yellow roses.

The couple will make their home in Vancouver.

Attitudes Have Roots In Past Generations

"One cannot reason with an attitude, one can only achieve insight into it," said Dr. Leyda Lythgoe, speaking to University Women's Club of Victoria on Wednesday evening on the subject "Attitudes and Maturity."

"Our attitudes to ideas, to people and things around us are picked up with our mother tongue and from the same people, who pass on the attitudes they in turn have acquired from their own parents."

"These attitudes have very long strong roots. A good domestic education is needed by both parents if they are to be good mature parents who can see each child as a potential person and guide him according to the goals they hope he may reach."

NO RULE BOOK

Dr. Lythgoe, who was a psychiatrist on the staff of the Menninger Clinic in Kansas before coming to practice in Victoria, said there is no rule book that tells how to become a mature personality, which can be called on for all its resources. She felt that the early grades of elementary schools need the most mature people of all. The child is just beginning to weave adults into his tapestry, and his first teachers have a tremendous influence on the kind of attitudes he develops. It is important that they be well educated, well respected and well paid.

Dr. Lythgoe was introduced by Mrs. Norman Clark and thanked by Mrs. J. T. Fyles.

Mrs. C. D. Stockhill presided. It was decided that the club send a gift to the new International House at University of British Columbia. Plans were made for the annual scholarship tea to be held April 4 in Oak Bay Beach Hotel.

Following the meeting, Mrs. Daryl Elford, assisted by Mrs. A. H. Gunning, Mrs. W. A. Porter, Mrs. W. G. Welbourn, Mrs. A. E. Leonard and Mrs. J. H. Brown served coffee.

Entertaining husband's friends:

A prominent man in a near-by large city recently mentioned to my husband that he and his wife would like to come to our home some evening, so we could know each other better. I am at a complete loss as to how to entertain them and need some help to bolster more confidence in myself. Should I invite them to dinner and, if so, should I write a note to the wife? And should I ask what she would like to eat? I don't know what to do about suggesting games for

Original Fashions At Tea

Famous name designers had their day in Victoria Wednesday when many original fashions for women were shown at St. Margaret's Old Girls Association annual bursary tea.

The style show, held in the Oak Bay Beach Hotel, depicted lovely clothes for spring in the latest color tones. Light wool suits, topcoats, accessories and frocks were shown by models Mrs. David Hummel, Mrs. E. Savannah, Mrs. Ann Cavendish-Kunody and the Misses Jill Ulrich, Phyllis Pollard, Faith Graham and Angela Park. Adorable English party frocks and little topcoats were shown by the two little girls, Faith and Angela.

Convener of the event was Mrs. J. H. Graham, president of the association.

The show was sponsored by the W. & J. Wilson Company and Tooley's Ladies' Accessories Shop.

A sum of $123 was realized, to go toward the association's scholarship fund.

Prior to the fashion presentation, tea was served. Presiding at the head table were Mrs. A. J. Laundry, Mrs. H. J. Jones, Miss Frances Price and Mrs. H. C. Holmes.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Run the Water for Him!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I'm so ashamed of my problem I don't even know how to say it. Well, my husband is one of those stubborn-kind. You can't tell him anything. He isn't a drinker. He doesn't chase. He goes to church and maybe I shouldn't complain but here it is: He thinks it's foolish to take a bath in the winter. Abby, I have hinted, made suggestions, opened windows and burned incense, but nothing helps. He says a man doesn't have to smell like a "lily of the valley." Outside of that he is dandy. Can you please help me get him into a tub before Easter?

OVERCOME

DEAR OVERCOME: A man doesn't have to smell like a lily of the valley—neither does he have to smell like a mountain goat. Quit hinting, opening windows and burning incense. Tell him plainly, "If you want ME next to YOU, get next to yourself, Honey, and take a tub, Bub!" (And use plenty of soft soap if you have to.)

DEAR ABBY: What is a girl supposed to do when she wants to be popular? I try to be friendly with a boy but I don't want to get the reputation of being fast. I kiss them good night, but they aren't satisfied to stop there. They want more. How does a girl act towards a fellow who, when she gives him an inch wants the whole hand?

THELMA

DEAR THELMA: Compromise. Give him the BACK of your hand.

DEAR ABBY: I think you were wrong when you told that party that people should call on the phone before coming over. I think that is one of the reasons why families and friends are drifting apart. Far as I'm concerned, any time a friend of ours thinks enough of us to come and visit us, we welcome them. Please print this as I know a lot of people will agree that you are wrong and I am right. Also, tell Andrea for me that we bought a "welcome mat" for our front door before we had a telephone.

A STEADY READER

DEAR READER: Sorry, I can't agree with you. Most people are not prepared for company "any time." A telephone call in advance is not too big a price to pay for a warm welcome.

DEAR ABBY: My husband thinks we should take our children to church from the time they are two months old.

They cry and wiggle and nearly drive me crazy. I don't get a thing out of the services. We have a nursery but he won't let me leave the children there. He has the idea that a baby must learn to sit quietly in church. Says he had to do it when he was small. What can I do? I might as well stay home.—STUMPED.

DEAR STUMPED: I agree that children should be taught to sit quietly in church, but if they are too young to understand what's going on and spoil the services for others, they should be left elsewhere.

Are your parents square? Get Abby's booklet: "What Every Teenager Wants to Know." Send 25 cents and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY in care of this newspaper.

NO EXEMPTION ON OIL QUOTA

OTTAWA (UPI) — Trade Minister Gordon Churchill said today he could find no facts to confirm a report that the United States will exempt Canadian and Venezuelan oil from recently-imposed mandatory quotas.

He was replying in the Commons to a question asked by Paul Martin (Lib., Essex East).

The legislature Thursday night gave final approval to legislation to set up a new department of commercial transport which will have wide powers over the province's trucking industry.

The new department, to be established when the bill is given royal assent, will be in charge of a minister. But Premier Bennett has not yet indicated if a new minister will be appointed or if the portfolio will be taken over by one of the present ministers of the government.

Attached to the legislation is a schedule of fees by which licence fees on the larger trucks — those above 5,000 pounds gross weight — will be increased anywhere from 20 to 60 per cent.

The bill makes provision for reciprocal agreements with the licensing for across-the-border trucking.

Altitude Chamber Used for Suicide

WASHINGTON (AP) — An airman used a high altitude test chamber as a suicide weapon, the U.S. Air Force said today.

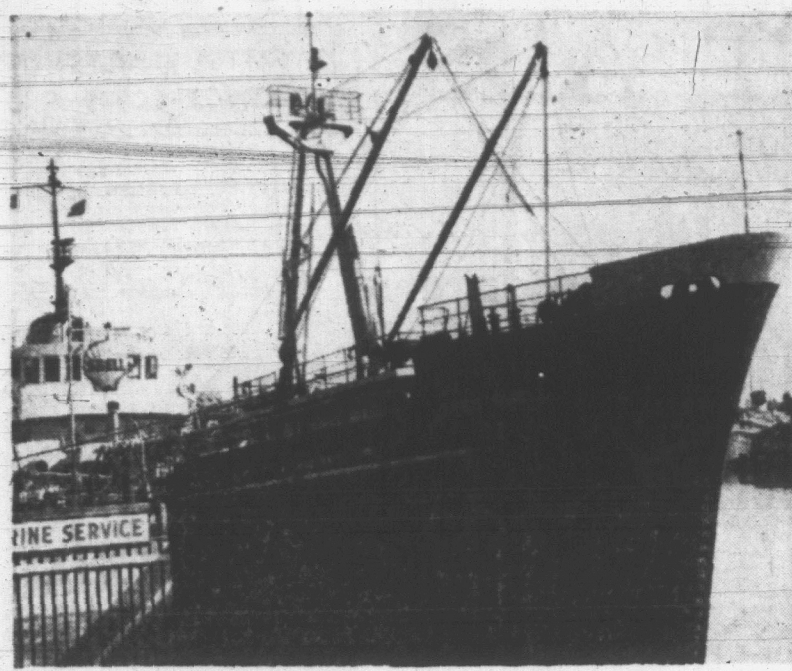

A headquarters spokesman said "it has been established" that airman Walter Moore of Anniston, Ala., killed himself by that bizarre method at Davis-Monthan Air Force Base in Arizona March 8.

The spokesman said Moore boosted himself to the equivalent of 70,000 feet in altitude where there is virtually no air. Life can be sustained at such height only by providing oxygen through a helmet or other such means.

B.C. BUYS LONG BEACH PROPERTY

The B.C. recreations department has acquired about 100 acres, including 1½ miles of waterfrontage, at Long Beach on the west coast of Vancouver Island. Recreations Minister Earle Westwood revealed Thursday night.

He said the area has been set aside for park development.

"We are greatly interested in that area and we are sending a survey party up there next week," Mr. Westwood said.

Calgary Hoping To Host Games

CALGARY (CP) — Mayor Don Mackay will visit Ottawa next week to discuss with federal authorities a Calgary bid for the 1968 Winter Olympics.

Should the bid be approved by the federal government, Mayor Mackay said a formal application will be forwarded to Olympic officials meeting in Switzerland in May.

Calgary's plans for the Olympics include use of outdoor facilities at Banff and construction of a new sports centre in Calgary.

VANCOUVER (CP) — The wife of former British Columbia lands and forests minister Robert Sommers said here Thursday the minister's family will be in debt five, 10 or 15 years.

Mrs. Sommers made the comment after learning her husband's appeal against conviction on bribery and conspiracy charges was dismissed by a majority decision in the British Columbia Court of Appeal.

"It was quite a blow," she said.

Mrs. Sommers has been working in a wool shop at Victoria during the last six months to keep her two school-aged children.

She said family finances would make it difficult for her husband to appeal the dismissal to the Supreme Court of Canada.

"I don't see how we can do it. It takes all I earn just to keep the house and the children."

Electric Shock Victim 'Lucky To Be Alive'

Victim of a 12,000-volt electrical shock at Rocky Point Naval Arsenal Wednesday said on his discharge from Jubilee Hospital Thursday, "I'm lucky to be alive."

Walter Green, 58, of 2731 Winstler, was taken by naval ambulance to Jubilee with physical shock from a road near staff quarters and was handling a cable when the crane dislodged the power line, causing it to fall and crush against the cable.

"What saved my life were the rubber soles on my boots and heavy rubber gloves," Green said. "My feet felt hot after I came to, about 20 feet away from the rock."

"I don't know just what happened, and afterward they put me in a truck to keep me warm until the ambulance came."

MEN ONLY! LADIES SHOULD NOT READ THIS

Dear Ladies: Have you ever found yourself in hot water - simply because you ran out of hot water?

Of course you have. But it need never happen again. Fairbanks-Horne have supplied us with an electric hot water tank which is equipped with 2 heating elements - and 2 thermostats. It's a 3000 watt affair that has RAPID RECOVERY.

This means that when you draw out a large quantity of hot water, such of those 2000 watts are turned on automatically, bringing the temperature up again in the shortest possible time.

"So far so good," you say. "What's the fee?"

If I told you right now how little it costs you would think it didn't have a ten-year protection policy - a glass lining - a thick Fiberglas insulation - a lustrous, gleaming white, baked enamel finish - a 30-gallon capacity and many other smart features.

It's a pleasure, ladies, to be able to announce the price of this marvelous P-34 hot water tank. Only $99.95!

The down payment? Let that be a pleasant surprise! Just pick up the phone and dial EV 3-1171 and find "not how much," but how little it is.

SQUARE FEET OF BEAUTY

FOR SALE

Thalia, right! Thirty acres of 17-year-old vigorous young trees, shrubs and flowers. While many of these have been imported, they have all been replanted and adapted to local conditions - before being offered for sale. That is why it is possible for us to guarantee unconditionally, for one year, all our nursery stock.

PATCHY?

The patchwork quilt idea of landscaping where a little is done this year and a little is done next year has given over to the where ALL is done at one time by R.C.'s largest and oldest firm (since 1889). The deferred payments carry NO interest.

HOW MUCH?

Professional landscaping costs only the fraction of the dollar value it adds to your home. Establishing this cost is a service we gladly give.

"FOREST" CEDAR SIDING

WHAT IS FOREST SIDING?

Made of dry 1 1/2" Stock 8, 10 and 12-inch widths, "FOREST" Siding is a new type of Siding obtained from specially selected Cedar logs sawn to show the beauty and character of knots, burls, etc.

WHAT ARE ITS QUALITIES?

Tony Anthony Fights Sonny Ray In New York at 7 on 6, 2, 4

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor

THE CLASSIC - I will join other reviewers today in their hope that Jack Benny's act with the chimps Wednesday night was recorded on tape for posterity.
It was an act to remember always, not only to laugh about but to marvel at. If ever there was concrete proof of the Darwinian theory it was this.

Part of an English act called "The Marquis Family," the chimps proved more human than humans as they imitated Benny (who was dressed in the same type of sweater worn by his jungle pals), corrected him when he was wrong, offered him a banana and when he refused indicated in no uncertain terms that the comedian was off his rocker.

One of the best bits was the chimp who first placed his chair next to Benny's but on second thoughts gave into his snobbishness by carrying his chair down the line to sit with the other chimps.

Then there was the intriguing hole in the stage floor that gave those caddish enough to take advantage a glimpse into the girls' dressing room. All the chimps got into trouble over this, especially the tall one called Jack.

As one more unforgettable bit of fun in TV's funniest skit today, the act ended with Benny playing his famous (or infamous) "Love in Bloom" on the violin while the disgusted chimps solemnly carted their chairs off stage all the while shaking their heads, obviously over the sad state of man.

Quite in addition to this fine act, however, the Benny show, as put together by Bud Yorkin who was responsible for the Fred Astaire hit earlier in the season, was a dilly. It had life, laughs and speed throughout. To help matters his guests were all in top form. Bob Hope, Senor Wences and, making her live TV debut, lovely Mitzil Gaylor, fresh from her triumph in the motion picture version of "South Pacific."

It was good to see Miss Gaylor aboard, as far as this reviewer is concerned. She, along with Piper Laurier, was once a young starlet who didn't set anyone on fire. But hard work over the past few years has paid dividends and they are becoming of a calibre that one wouldn't have guessed in the beginning.

I suppose, however, in the end the unbreakable, perpetual juvenile, Benny must be given the last hurrah. It was his show and therefore to him should go much of the credit for the hour of top-notch entertainment it turned out to be. And I'm sure even he wouldn't mind being upstaged by three well-mannered, well-dressed chimps of distinction.

THE FIGHT - Everyone dislikes to see a champion dethroned because of injuries. Therefore, doubtless, all will be eagerly awaiting the return match between ex-champion Hogan Kid Bassey and the new champion Davey Moore. It was a scorching while it lasted and the rematch may be even better.

'Saw Him Swing Stick'

GRAND FALLS, Nfld. (CP) — A Newfoundland logger appeared in court today, charged with murder after an RCMP corporal described the March 10 clash between police and pickets that resulted in the death of a young constable.

Ronald Laing, 39, of Lomond, Nfld., was remanded until March 26.

Cpl. Garfield Smith testified that he saw Laing "swing a stick and hit a Newfoundland Constabulary man on the head" during the incident at nearby Badger.

"The RCMP dropped unlawful assembly charges against eight loggers arrested after the incident at nearby Badger and laid against them the more serious charge of taking part in a riot. The eight were remanded without bail to March 28.

The RCMP also charged Charles Trask Jr., of Grand Falls with committing mischief by damaging an International Woodworkers of America (IWO) building at Bishop's Falls.

Memorials Monopoly Charged

A Vancouver CCF member told the Legislature Thursday there is a lower mainland firm dealing in bronze memorials which was a "monopoly rapidly approaching the dangerous stage."

Arthur Turner of Vancouver East riding said he referred to Bronze Memorials Ltd., an eastern firm which now controls at least three lower mainland cemeteries and was buying into funeral directing companies.

"One of the procedures," he said, "is that they have a monopoly on bronze memorials and pressure is put on families to sell them bronze memorials instead of stone."

He submitted that through its growing control the company was getting in a position where it could exert unfair pressure on bereaved families.

Premier Bennett asked Mr. Turner to supply the details to him and he would take up the matter with the chairman of the Public Utilities Commission which regulates the operation of cemeteries.

... ANTI-PICKET BILL

nel officers to go in to protect him."

The heat was turned off at Essondale and there was apprehension for welfare of elderly senile patients.

Mail and telephone communications were cut off, thus curtailing the work of government. Mr. Bonner said the court ruled the strike brought more than picketing, it was a "virtual blockade." There can never be interruption of government, said Mr. Bonner, "except by action of the Queen's enemies." It was because of this bill was prepared, to be proclaimed if ever a situation should arise again when it is necessary.

Opposition Leader Robert Strachan said the attorney-general completely overlooked the cause of the strike. "If he thinks he can absolve himself and the government of all blame, he has another think coming."

The government made no attempt to avert the strike by meeting with the BCGEA executive or tabling the report of the enquiry by Dr. F. A. Carrothers. The government is not sympathetic to the economic needs of the employees and has "sacrificed the civil servants to the fatuous claim of debt reduction." The bill is designed to keep the employees as "galley slaves chained to their oars."

For the second day in a row the government was putting forward repressive legislation, said Mr. Strachan.

He quoted a Times account of Highways Minister Gagliardi's remarks that the present bill had broken his promise to the civil servants, that the discussions with the BCGEA had taken place when former chief justice, the late Gordon Sloan was conducting the enquiry.

Mr. Gagliardi had stated the government had more confidence in Mr. Sloan than in his successor in the enquiry, Dr. Carrothers.

'Trying to Slide Out From Under'

Mr. Strachan said Mr. Gagliardi was "trying to slide out from under."

He charged the government, on the basis of Mr. Gagliardi's remarks, "appointed someone in whom they had very little confidence, then when he brings in a report, they bury it... make a sham out of it."

This bill would be a memorial to the government that breaks its word, "a gravestone over yet another freedom of the people of the province."

Provincial Secretary Wesley Black said he was informed if the strike continued serious illness and death might result for inmates in mental hospitals. The CCF blames him for alleged inadequacies of service in mental units, then when there is a strike, makes this situation defensible.

He stated at Vernon, patients had to go to bed to keep warm, when the strike caused a heating plant shutdown.

"Is it right for a couple of cooks and a blacksmith to tell a medical director what he should or should not do?"

second reading, or approval in principle, to a bill making it unlawful to picket any government building in the province.

A clause-by-clause debate of the bill was scheduled at today's sitting.

WINDUP TODAY

The government hopes to prorogue the House today.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner said the government's main purpose in getting the injunction was to halt picketing.

He would not comment on whether the issue will be brought to trial, which would only come about if executives of the BCGEA were charged with illegal picketing.

He indicated charges would not be pressed.

The injunction would continue until the issue is brought to trial, but once the legislation making picketing of government buildings is approved, there is no necessity for a test case.

Ed O'Connor, secretary of the BCGEA, said the legislation places government employees in the untenable position of "lost souls without civil rights."

ONLY RECOURSE

"The only apparent recourse is to participate individually in direct or indirect political activity," he said today.

He criticized the government for introducing legislation outlawing picketing of government buildings while the right of government employees to picket still was being considered by the court.

"The government only respects the time-honored principle of considering subject matter before the courts to be sub judice when it suits their purpose," he said.

"It is quite evident the government has no hesitation in using our courts as a political convenience."

Mr. O'Connor said the association would do nothing until BCGEA counsel Thomas Dohm has had time to study the legislation and Mr. Justice Ruttan's reasons for judgment, and advise the executive.

NEW STRIKE

He did not rule out the possibility of another strike, however, despite the difficulty of enforcing a walkout without picketing.

"We still have one way out," he commented. "A mass walkout by all employees would be quite legal."

He said such a move would be "disastrous tactics," but added, "What else can we do when the government is taking all our civil rights away from us?"

Meanwhile, Mr. O'Connor claims civil servants have been denuded of their civil rights in the area of employer-employee relationships, and are completely under the heel of the government of the day.

'Feudalism'

That condition has never been so clearly defined as now," he said. "Our strike March 13 forced the government into the open to declare its potential philosophy. It's feudalism."

He was highly critical of a statement by Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi that there was never any promise that the Carrothers Report on bargaining rights for civil servants would be published, and also the government did not have the confidence in Dr. F. A. Carrothers that it had in the late Hon. Gordon Sloan, originally slated to compile the report.

"To me this appears to be a devious excuse to escape the normal responsibility arising out of government integrity," he said.

Earlier this week the BCGEA had indicated it would take the case to the Supreme Court of Canada if necessary but Mr. O'Connor indicated this is now unlikely.

"Whether it would serve any useful purpose in view of the bill now before the House, which makes picketing illegal, is a matter for a lawyer's advice," he said.

United States from storage in Canada resulting from co-operative developments by the two countries could be readily absorbed by the growing power load in the Vancouver area of British Columbia.

The Copper-Creek and Dorr plans would divert an annual average amount of about 3,600 and 8,000 cubic feet per second — 2,600,000 and 3,800,000 acre-feet — respectively into the Columbia River from the Kootenay.

The commission said it has taken the board's conclusions "under advisement."

Copper Creek is about 12 miles south of Columbia Lake. Dorr is about 10 miles north of the international boundary. Each of the three plans would achieve the same degree of water resources development, the report says.

The engineering board said certain projects common to all three development plans could be recommended to the two governments by the commission. This could be done for early development — without waiting for or prejudging the final selection of a single plan of international system development.

However, the board said, any further progress toward co-operative development would require some measure of agreement between the two countries on sharing of costs and benefits.

The United States has agreed in principle that Canada is entitled to a share of the power generated at American plants by use of water stored in Canada but the exact proportion has not been fixed. That problem now is being studied by the commission.

"Power benefits in both countries can be materially increased by co-operative development and operation of storage and power projects to conform to a plan of basin development," the board says.

"It is physically and economically feasible to develop a system of power plants that will produce an average of more than 16,000,000 kilowatts utilizing about 50,000,000 acre-feet of storage."

The board tended to favor its Copper Creek diversion plan but added that its margin of superiority is "small."

Only 18 conclusions of the board were made public. The rest of the report, including estimates of costs, was not released by agreement of the Canadian and American sections of the six-member commission.

In the published part of the report, no mention is made of the possibility of diverting the Columbia into the Fraser River, which flows only in Canada.

Tougher Courses Asked by Students

QUALICUM BEACH (CP)—Three students have submitted a brief to the Chant Commission on education in B.C.

Joy Butler, Jeanne Higgins and John Gosselin, all 17, of the junior-senior high school here submitted a brief Thursday calling for enriched university programs "of the top percentage of high school students in the province."

Their brief, the first submitted by students, was prepared by 15 students. It also urged a new, more difficult program for students who did not go on to university.

Alberni district teachers, in an earlier submission severely criticized the basic philosophy of the B.C. department of education curriculum.

"ABANDON IT"

The teachers demanded that the "spiral method of curriculum planning with its attendant evils of monotony and inefficiency be abandoned."

They described the spiral method as a repetition of a subject at two or three different grade levels, each time at a different level of difficulty.

William Ramsay said: "We must teach less material more thoroughly and get it through to the students."

The only solution, he said, was curriculum revision emphasizing mastery of a subject when it is first taught.

Light Work, Full Pay Dodge On Compensation Rapped

Legislation to stop employers from coaxing injured employees to stay on the job with light work and full pay, rather than applying for compensation, was urged in the legislature Thursday by John Squire (CCF-Alberni).

His proposed amendment to the new compensation bill was defeated by the government. (See also page 15.)

Mr. Squire said the practice is common in industry. Because assessments for compensation are based on the accident rate at a plant, some firms find it is cheaper to pay full wages even if the man can do no work, than to have him go on compensation and possibly bring about an increase in the assessment.

While this might appear to work to the injured man's advantage, said Mr. Squire, a risk exists that after a couple of weeks the man will find his injury more serious than was originally thought.

So long after the accident it is then difficult to file a claim with the Compensation Board.

It injuries are permanent, a compensation pension could be jeopardized.

Labor Minister Lyle Wicks said it is difficult to obtain specific information on such cases.

Mr. Squire said he should ask the unions. They could provide proof.

Mr. Squire also brought in an amendment seeking widows' pensions of $125 a month instead of $90 as now proposed. "If the industry cannot afford this rate, then the compensation fund should be subsidized," he stated.

Mr. Wicks replied such an increase would cost industry almost $11,000,000 in higher assessments, and the widow's allowance is already the highest in Canada.

Anti-Picket Bill Endorsed After Bitter House Battle

Members Argue Until 3.50 A.M.

By PETE LOUDON, Times Legislative Reporter

The Social Credit government's bill to ban picketing of government buildings underwent a vicious four-hour barrage in the legislature before it was given second reading at 3.50 a.m. today.

It was the third time in a week that the House had sat through most of the night to debate labor legislation. The latest debate will go down as the most abusive of the session.

When the final vote was taken the three Liberal members sided with the government against the CCF in a 33 to 9 decision.

Although recent debates, notably on Bill 43—the new Trade Union Act—have been one-sided, the government members did not sit back to wait for the CCF to talk themselves out. With leadership of Attorney-General Robert Bonner, Health Minister Eric Martin and Provincial Secretary Wesley Black, they pitched in like terriers at a cat show.

The legislative chambers resounded with cries of "Fascist," "Nazis," "enemies of the Queen," "filthy tactics" and "politically you are all psychopathic."

There were divisions and withdrawals and the Speaker's gavel rapped almost steadily through the night. Here are some of the startling statements which kept members from falling asleep:

Attorney-General Bonner said an escape plan was set at Brannan-Lake industrial school, timed for the hours when guards were reduced by last Friday's strike.

Health Minister Martin indicated evidence of "loyalty" during the strike will be rewarded.

Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston suggested the strike was really aimed at scuttling Bill 43, which has been interpreted in some labor circles as "anti-labor legislation."

POWER PLANT CEREMONY SET FOR QUEEN

OTTAWA (CP)—Royal Four planners announced today that the Queen will participate June 27 in unveiling a plaque at the international power-plant near Cornwall, Ont.

The plaque is being erected on the international boundary, which runs through the dam. The ceremony, announced today for the first time, follows the June 26 international ceremony at St. Lambert lock near Montreal in which the Queen will be joined by President Eisenhower in officially opening the St. Lawrence seaway.

B.C. HOUSE EXPECTED TO FINISH TONIGHT

Throat-weary B.C. legislators had just about reached the final wire today in the 1959 session of the House. Prorogation is expected either tonight or at a brief ceremony Saturday morning.

Only the third reading of the government's controversial anti-picketing law for civil servants, one item in the estimates covering legislative costs, and a few minor bills and motions remained to be cleared up after another marathon sitting which ended at 3.50 a.m. today.

The House has been sitting only the normal eight weeks, since Jan. 19, but students of procedure say there have been more night sittings than at any time in the last 10 years.

In the last 10 days alone the House has had eight night sittings, three of which have lasted most of the night.

Companies Counter IWA Demand

VANCOUVER (CP)—Negotiations in a coast woodworkers dispute have taken a new turn with company representatives announcing counter-proposals to union demands.

Forest Industrial Relations, representing 158 operators, announced Thursday it presented a list of proposals to representatives of the International Woodworkers of America, including a demand for a 60-per-cent increase in logging camp board and lodging rates.

Negotiations have been going on over a union demand for a 20-per-cent wage increase.

Other contract changes proposed by F.I.R. would require separate agreements in widespread logging camps, cut travel pay, limit union assessments in company check-offs and other changes.

Jack Moore, executive assistant of the IWA, said the union is opposing all the company proposals.

The long-awaited report, released by the International Joint Commission today, recommends only storage dams be built on the Canadian side of the development.

Power generators would be installed on the United States side.

The report confirms that it is economically and physically feasible to develop a system producing more than 16,000,000 kilowatts of electricity annually, stressing that it must be achieved by Canada-United States agreement.

THREE PROJECTS

It suggests three preliminary Columbia basin development plans—diversion of the Kootenay River into the Columbia, either at Copper Creek or Dorr, B.C., and a third plan involving no diversion.

The engineers said: "In Canada the only immediate market for large blocks of additional Columbia basin power is located on the west coast, involving expensive transmission facilities if this power is to be generated at Columbia projects in the Columbia basin. Moreover there are no major flood problems in the Columbia basin in Canada."

"Substantial blocks of power generated downstream in the Columbia basin in Canada."

U.S. MAN IN SPACE WITHIN 12 MONTHS

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. Phillip A. Lapp, president of the Canadian Astronomical Society, said Thursday night the United States will put its first man into space—for about five minutes—within a year.

This will be followed by Project Mercury, a manned satellite, he told a meeting of the Toronto branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada.

Political Action Threatened By Civil Servants

B.C. Government Employees' Association, bitter at losing its second battle in two days over the question of picketing government buildings, today threatened "direct or indirect" political activity to achieve its end.

The first blow came Thursday in Vancouver when Mr. Justice J. G. Ruttan upheld in Supreme Court a government injunction to prevent the BCGEA from picketing government services.

Mr. Justice Ruttan found the government employees' strike last Friday amounted to "a virtual blockade."

"The only conclusion I can draw from consideration of all the material presented on this motion is that the overall purpose was nothing less than complete control of the movement of persons and supplies to and from government premises."

He said such actions constitute an unlawful picket and must be enjoined.

He ruled the attorney-general has the privilege of intervening in the public interest and "may do so even though there be no evidence of actual injury, but only that the defendants may be performing certain illegal acts which tend in their nature to injure the public."

He said he accepted the submission of crown counsel M. McFarlane, Q.C., that persons have the right to go to and from government premises without interference.

Second setback to the servants in their current war for bargaining rights took place early today in the legislature, where the government, in another nearly all-night sitting, slowly but surely gave

Local Man May Be New RCMP Chief

OTTAWA (CP)—A present officer of the RCMP will be recommended shortly to the government to take over as new commissioner of the force, Justice Minister Fulton announced today.

He said in the Commons that "no consideration whatsoever" is being given to appointment of someone from outside the force to succeed Commissioner L. H. Nicholson, whose resignation was announced Monday.

Commissioner Nicholson, who resigned the $19,000-a-year post over the federal government's refusal to grant at this time Newfoundland's request for 50 RCMP reinforcements, agreed to stay on until a successor is chosen.

Among those who have been mentioned in speculation for the post are assistant commissioner C. W. Harvison, 58, of Victoria, officer commanding the RCMP in British Columbia and formerly director of the criminal investigation branch, and assistant commissioner D. A. McKinnon, 57, present director of the branch.

Harvison, a native of Montreal, has been with the RCMP since 1919.

'Big Two' Hideaway Talks Open

WASHINGTON (AP)—In a rustic mountain hideaway, President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan today opened a weekend of conferences looking toward negotiations with Russia on the future of Germany.

They arrived with British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd by helicopter at Camp David after a half-hour meeting with State Secretary Dulles at Walter Reed Army Hospital. Dulles, suffering from cancer, has been in hospital since Feb. 10.

At the retreat in the Catoctin Mountains about 65 miles from Washington, Eisenhower and Macmillan plunged into the round of detailed discussions that will keep them occupied there through Sunday. Final talks probably will be held at the White House Monday.

Macmillan, arriving Thursday from talks in Ottawa, called for the development of "common policies that combine firmness and reasonableness."

Among the Allied leaders there was no evidence of any disagreement on the need for firmness.

One issue is a possibility of following up the foreign ministers session with a summit conference.

Macmillan is known to favor promising Soviet Premier Khrushchev a summit conference, probably in July, whereas Eisenhower believes such a meeting should be made conditional on progress toward a solution of German issues.

Another basic difference is German reunification. Eisenhower's advisers say the U.S. wants to press the Russians toward merging West Germany and Communist East Germany.

Macmillan is reported to believe that German unity still is some years away and that the Western powers must be prepared to deal with a number of problems without requiring unification measures as a precondition.

UNCLE SAM'S 'DEMOCRATIC' HAT FOR MAC

WASHINGTON (UPI)—An "Uncle Sam hat" to replace the fur headpiece British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan wore in Moscow recently—was delivered to the British Embassy today.

The tall, star-spangled top hat was shipped from San Antonio, Tex., by an organization identified as Uncle Sam's Nephews of Texas.

It bore this message to Macmillan:

"The heart or mind of Uncle Sam

"For whom this hat's symbolic

"Has never flinched or compromised

"With despots' threats or diabolical."

SOMMERS, GRAY BACK IN JAIL

Further Appeal Undecided

VANCOUVER (CP)—Robert Sommers and H. Wilson Gray who lost their appeal against conviction on bribery and conspiracy charges were back in jail today.

They surrendered soon after the British Columbia Court of Appeal had announced its majority decision to dismiss the appeal.

The two men will be held in Oakalla prison pending outcome of an appeal against their five-year sentences. This is to begin in Appeal Court here Monday.

Defence lawyers said Thursday no decision has been taken on whether to carry the fight against conviction to the Supreme Court of Canada.

Mr. Justice H. I. Bird, who headed the three-judge Appeal Court panel that heard four days of legal argument in Victoria last month, and Mr. Justice F. A. Sheppard ruled against all grounds of the appeal against conviction.

Mr. Justice H. W. Davey upheld two counts of the appeal and said the conviction should be quashed.

Fighting Ships Big and Little End Exercises

The four smallest and the four largest commissioned ships in the RCN's Pacific Command are back in port today after peacetime exercises geared to wartime conditions.

The "little fellows" are HMC Ships Fortune, James Bay, Miramichi, and Cowichan, units of the Second Canadian Minesweeping Squadron.

The "big guys" with a Sunday punch aimed at submarines are HMC Ships Assiniboine, Margaree, Fraser and Skeena, destroyer escorts attached to the Second Canadian Escort Squadron.

Wartime Conditions

Each group was carrying out operational exercises under conditions as near as possible to those encountered in war.

The "sweepers," under command of Lt. Cmdr. D. M. Waters, entered Esquimalt Harbor at 2 p.m. Thursday after two weeks of coastal minesweeping in the Oyster Bay-Campbell River area.

Their job is to keep harbor approaches clear of all types of mines.

The destroyers ranged farther afield and for a much greater length of time.

Away Two Months

Under command of Capt. J. C. Pratt, squadron commander of the Second, they returned at 10 a.m. today, two months plus one week after leaving for operational exercises in Alaska, mid-Pacific, and California waters.

There were two main highlights of the destroyers' cruise:

A battering by northwest winds up to 75 knots which churned up 40 foot seas on their way from Adak, in the Aleutian islands, to Midway. At the peak of the storm, the ships recorded rolls up to 57 degrees.

Lots of Company

The task group to which the Second Canadian Escort Squadron was assigned consisted of a 40,000-ton improved "Essex" class U.S. aircraft carrier, American destroyers, submarines, supply ships, and shore-based patrol aircraft.

Helicopters, anti-submarine planes and jet aircraft also took part in the exercises, which included refueling and re-provisioning at sea.

Simulated wartime conditions were carried out, with ships blacked out at night and "enemy" submarines attacking the task group, firing exercise torpedoes.

Two Weeks' Games

At one stage in the operations, Capt. Pratt took over as screen commander. The exercises lasted over two weeks.

The Fraser, Margaree and Skeena had taken part earlier in another joint USN-RCN operation, which also included RCAF maritime squadron 407, based at Comox.

While this exercise was taking place, HMCS Assiniboine officially joined the Pacific Command.

When the squadron left Esquimalt Jan. 13, senior ship was HMCS Crescent, a veteran of this coast.

Crew Transfer

At San Diego, officers and men of the Crescent transferred to the Assiniboine, which had steamed to California from Halifax.

Assiniboine went to sea as a "lone wolf" for a three-day working-up period before re-joining the squadron.

Shortly after leaving San Diego on the way home, the squadron carried out air defence exercises, followed by anti-aircraft and surface firing practice.

Fifteen thousand miles after leaving home, the four ships docked today.

City Firm May Bid On 'Big O'

Bids for the former Pacific Command cruiser Ontario, last of the six-inch-gun ships in the RCN, have been called by Crown Assets Disposal Corporation, Ottawa.

Bids are on where is, as is basis.

It is believed a local firm, Wagner, Stein and Green, may tender on the ship.

Tenders are called for scrapping purposes only, and on condition it will be broken up in Canada.

Ontario is tied up at the Colwood Jetty, on the west side of Esquimalt Harbor.

There was no liquor in the car that carried a marine pilot to his death last Aug. 21 at Douglas and the Trans-Canada Highway, Assize Court was told today in the second day of the criminal negligence trial of Capt. Patrick Morrison, another marine pilot.

Capt. John McKay, 36, Vancouver, testified driver of the car was Capt. Morrison, that the dead man, Capt. William Boyce, 41, of Vancouver, was seated next to the driver and he (McKay) was in the right front seat.

Defence counsel Alan Macfarlane asked: "Did you have any liquor with you?"

"No," said Capt. McKay. "Any beer?"

"No."

MONTE ROBERTS

OUR VERY OWN ISLAND DIGEST

(Our Very Own Correspondents were asked to report on their communities' civil defence organizations.)

WOBBLE HILL, V.I.—Our local CD group has noted with interest that Sooke has stated it could easily cope with 10,000 evacuees from Victoria if the need arose.

As a matter of fact, our local CD group under the leadership of Lem Fudd met down to the pool hall to discuss this very matter.

After the meeting, which was attended by a small but active number of leading citizens, Lem made the following announcement:

"We, the leaders of the CD group, have carefully discussed this matter and we have decided it is all right for Sooke to go in for quantity, but we of Wobble Hill prefer to deal in quality."

"Therefore, we are drawing up plans for a specialized service for Victoria citizens who need to be taken care of."

(Mr. Fudd and his fellow committeemen are bachelors.)

WALLOPEM BEACH, V.I.—The Wallopem Beach Civil Defence unit stands ready at all times to be prepared for any eventuality resulting from an emergency or other nasty situation.

As soon as there is an emergency, an emergency meeting will be held to discuss what to do.

Unless it is the off-season, like.

LUNCHVILLE, V.I.—The Lunchville CD organization is in high gear at all times, and assures the residents of Lower Vancouver Island they are welcome to evacuate to this beautiful vacation spot whenever it is necessary.

Even in the winter.

However, it is to be understood that if the emergency DOES arise in the winter, we will have to charge summer rates.

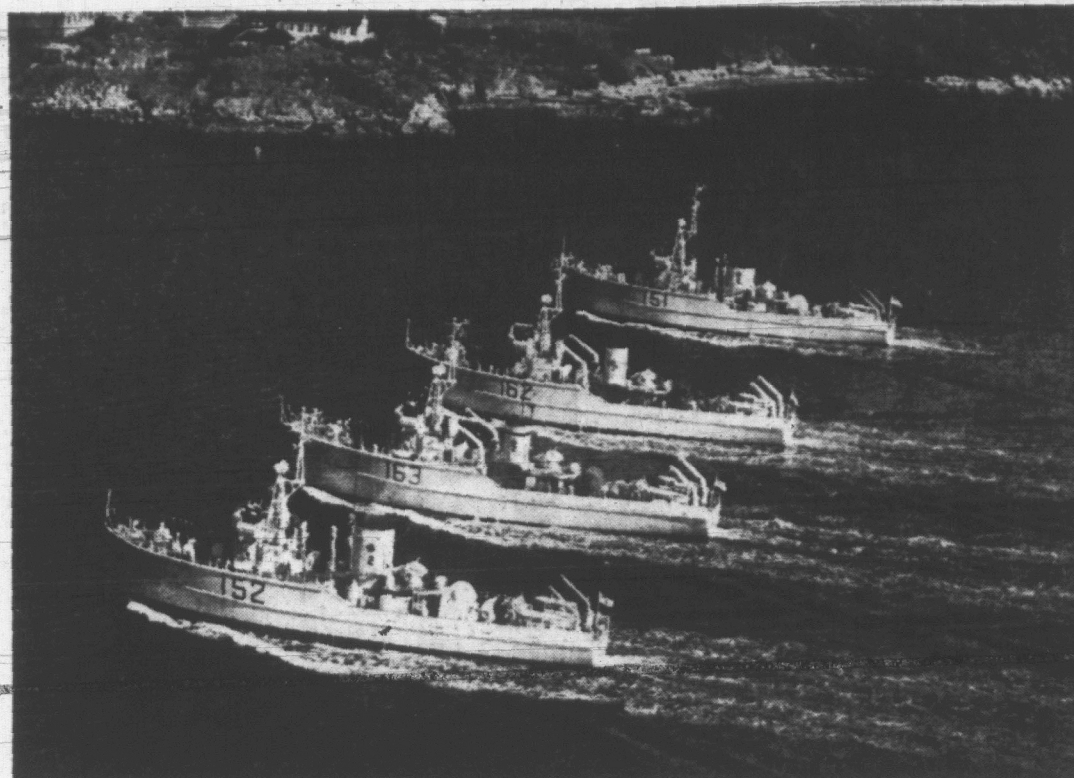

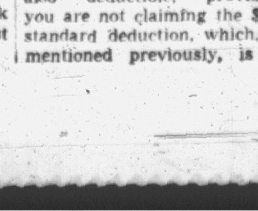

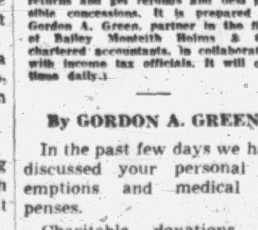

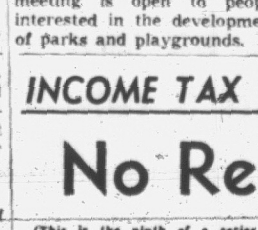

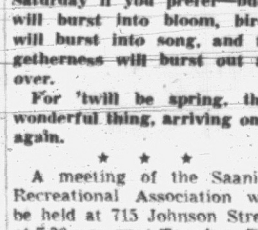

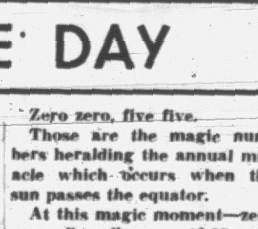

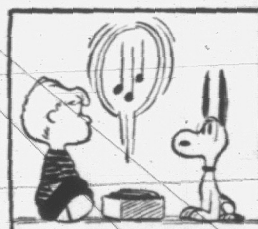

GOON CENTRE, V.I.—The attitude of Goon Centre toward civil defence was ably expressed recently by Mayor Abner Goon, the brilliant leading citizen of this hustling Island community.

During a social occasion at which he was one of the two honored guests, Mr. Goon said:

"I know all about civil defence, I have been on the defensive for 50 years."

Unfortunately, the other guest was Mrs. Abner Goon, and the occasion was the celebration of their golden wedding anniversary.

Mayor Goon is doing as well as could be expected. (The above dispatch was written by hand by our Goon Centre correspondent, Mrs. Abner Goon.)

Harry Ordered to Tidy Up His 'Exclusive Junkyard'

MRS. LOUISA FALLOWS ... she's amazing

BIG DAY SUNDAY

Women Like To 'Tidy Up'

This Sunday Mrs. Louisa Ann Fallows of the Salvation Army Sunset Lodge will be just one year short of her own century.

The active 99-year-old chided the photographer for arriving early and said she "didn't have time to get tidied up."

Born in London, England, Mrs. Fallows came to Canada 34 years ago and has lived in B.C. for 21 years.

She moved to Victoria five years ago and settled down at the Sunset Lodge.

She lives in comfort with 26 other senior citizens, cared for by a staff of 10 workers.

OLDEST

The oldest resident in the home, Mrs. Fallows continually amazes staff members by her alertness and agility.

"You would never believe she was 99," said Major Emily Woods, superintendent of the home, "she's so active."

A suggestion that she couldn't walk as well as before was received with indignation by Mrs. Fallows.

"I can walk perfectly well," she said, "I only go out in the car for long drives."

As competent mentally as she is physically, she keeps up with the daily news in the papers and is keenly interested in world affairs.

Junk dealer Harry Haigh, who caused a furore in 1952 when he moved into the exclusive Rockland Avenue district, today was ordered by Magistrate William Ostler to clean up his property.

Haigh, who resides at 1586 Rockland, was found guilty of keeping a junkyard at his home.

The magistrate said he would pass sentence on Haigh after he had received a report on the cleanliness of the property in two weeks time.

"My advice to you is to clean up as soon as possible the junk and material on your property," said the magistrate.

Haigh a resident of Victoria for more than 40 years, has been engaged in the salvage business for many years. He made a try for public office in 1951 when he ran for mayor. He also tried for an aldermanic post in 1952.

At his trial Haigh admitted being a junk dealer, but he said he did not keep a junk yard, nor had any need of one.

He explained his operation is simply picking up junk with his truck at various points, then taking it directly to buyers.

FOR OWN USE

He said the material found on his property was for his own use.

Flying Club's Biggest Show In Early May

Biggest show yet by Victoria Flying Club is planned for the weekend of May 2 and 3.

It will tie in with observances by 40 similar clubs throughout Canada during "National Flying Clubs Week."

Impetus to the show is given by the anniversary of the 50th year of powered flight.

Planes will be shown to the public on the ground, as last year, but in addition exhibitions of balloon "busting" and spot bombing (with flour) will be carried out.

Free flights over the city are being scheduled for holders of lucky tickets—details yet to be worked out.

86 STUDENTS

The big weekend will reflect the growth of the Victoria Flying Club. Five years ago there were only 20 students; today there are 86.

In 1958 more than 100 new members were added. Total now is 250 active.

Apart from the 20 member-owned planes, the club operates seven others, five Fleet Canucks, one Cessna 140 and a Navion for advanced training.

Chairman for events May 2-3 is Vic Dawson, Brentwood.

AMY TO TRY ENGLISH CHANNEL IN TWO-WAY, NON-STOP EFFORT

Amy Hiland of Long Beach, Calif., one of the popular Juan de Fuca Strait swimmers in recent years, is looking for new seas to conquer.

Later this year she will try to cross the English Channel both ways non-stop. In the meantime she is trying to arrange some training swims during the summer.

Amy made the "short-crossing" of the Strait, from Fort Angeles to William Head and fell just short of completing the main course. She was a prize-winner in the Junior Chamber of Commerce marathon three years ago.

The Jaycees said today they have no plans for reviving the Strait swim marathons.

'Very Much Alone' Youth Faces Crossroad of Life

By TONY DICKASON

There's a Victoria youth in Vancouver's Crease Clinic today who is very much alone.

DAVID HARVEY ... still in coma

He hasn't come out of a coma yet following a delicate brain operation two days ago, but when he does he'll wonder who his friends are.

David Harvey is a former Victoria College student, but had to stop after the last Christmas term because of recurring brain trouble, caused by a fall six years ago. He is just 19.

Because of the injuries to his brain, David has had trouble leading the usually easy-going life of a youth his age. And at times classmates that were once friends drifted away.

"We don't know whether David will come out of this operation or not," said his mother, Mrs. Ted Harvey, 1817 Quadra.

"But if he does, we know he'd like to receive a card, or letter from some of his chums. It is important for him psychologically at this time."

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Greater Victoria Civil Defence Control Board today approved a $35,456 budget for 1959.

Of this, Victoria will pay approximately $4,500; Saanich, $3,100; Oak Bay, $1,200; Esquimalt, $835; and provincial areas, $760.

Federal and provincial grants will total about $26,100.

Biggest portion, $21,625, is apportioned for "personal services," that is, payment of staff.

Total spent last year was $32,889.

ASK The TIMES

Q. Could you please tell me where I can find the authority regarding the correct English used in referring to a single hotel, as in, "I stayed in an hotel."—R.R.B.

A. The Oxford Dictionary says usage in this instance is common among some writers; it is not used by others. "An" is actually an older and fuller form of "a," so "I stayed in a hotel" would also be correct. Earlier, it was used as the form for "on" or "in," so "half an hour" becomes today's "half an hour."

Anybody wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to dealers.

'Big Two' Talks
In Progress

WASHINGTON (AP)—In a rustic mountain hideaway, President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan today opened a weekend of conferences looking toward negotiations with Russia on the future of Germany.

They arrived with British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd by helicopter at Camp David after a half-hour meeting with State Secretary Dulles at Walter Reed Army Hospital. Dulles, suffering from cancer, has been in hospital since Feb. 10.

At the retreat in the Catoctin Mountains about 65 miles from Washington, Eisenhower and Macmillan plunged into the round of detailed discussions that will keep them occupied there through Sunday. Final talks probably will be held at the White House Monday.

Macmillan, arriving Thursday from talks in Ottawa, called for the development of "common policies that com-

ness." Among the Allied leaders there was no evidence of any disagreement on the need for firmness.

One issue is a possibility of following up the foreign ministers session with a summit conference.

Macmillan is known to favor promising Soviet Premier Khrushchev a summit conference, probably in July, where, as Eisenhower believes such a meeting should be made conditional on progress toward a solution of German issues.

Another basic difference is German reunification. Eisenhower's advisers say the U.S. wants to press the Russians toward merging West Germany and Communist East Germany.

Macmillan is reported to believe that German unity still is some years away and that the Western powers must be prepared to deal with a number of problems without requiring unification measures as a precondition.

B.C. HOUSE EXPECTED TO FINISH TONIGHT

Throat-weary B.C. legislators had just about reached the final wire today in the 1959 session of the House.

Prorogation is expected either tonight, or at a brief ceremony Saturday morning.

Only the third reading of the government's controversial anti-picketing law for civil servants, one item in the estimates covering legislative costs, and a few minor bills and motions remained to be cleared up after another marathon sitting which ended at 3:50 a.m. today.

The House has been sitting only the normal eight weeks, since Jan. 19, but students of procedure say there have been more night sittings than at any time in the last 10 years.

In the last 10 days alone the House has had eight night sittings, three of which have lasted most of the night.

REPORT RELEASED

Early Start Seen
For Columbia

OTTAWA (CP)—The International Columbia River Engineering Board says an early start on power development of the Columbia Basin is possible.

C. W. HARVISON
... possible choice

But it adds that Canada-United States agreement on sharing of costs and benefits will be required before full co-operative development can go ahead.

The 18 conclusions reached by the engineering board were made public today by the international joint commission, which received them earlier this week.

The main body of the board's report was not released by agreement between Canada and American sections of the commission and this led to some confusion.

The 18 conclusions implied that only water storage dams should be built on the Canadian section of the Columbia, while power generation would be confined to the American sector of the river.

COULD BE FED DOWN

However, it was learned that the full report of the board says that power would be developed as well as storage provided at the main Canadian dams on the Columbia. This power could be fed down to the American grid system for onward transmission to the Vancouver area.

The report confirms that it is economically and physically feasible to develop a system producing more than 16,000,000 kilowatts of electricity annually, stressing that it must be achieved by Canada-United States agreement.

It suggests three preliminary Columbia basin development plans—diversion of the Kootenai River into the Columbia, either at Copper Creek or Dorr, B.C., and a third plan involving no diversion.

The engineers said: "In Canada the only immediate market for large blocks of additional Columbia basin power is located on the west coast, involving expensive transmission facilities if this power is to be generated at Canadian projects in the Columbia basin. Moreover there are no major flood problems in the Columbia basin in Canada."

"Substantial blocks of power generated downstream in the United States."

OTTAWA (CP)—A present officer of the RCMP will be recommended shortly to the government to take over as new commissioner of the force, Justice Minister Fulton announced today.

He said in the Commons that "no consideration whatsoever" is being given to appointment of someone from outside the force to succeed Commissioner L. H. Nicholson, whose resignation was announced Monday.

Commissioner Nicholson, who resigned the $19,000-a-year post over the federal government's refusal to grant at this time Newfoundland's request for 50 RCMP reinforcements, agreed to stay on until a successor is chosen.

Among those who have been mentioned in speculation for the post are assistant commissioner C. W. Harvison, 58, of Victoria, officer commanding the RCMP in British Columbia and formerly director of the criminal investigation branch, and assistant commissioner D. A. McKinnon, 57, present director of the branch.

Harvison, a native of Montreal, has been with the RCMP since 1919.

House in Session
Until 3.50 A.M.

By PETE LOUDON, Times Legislative Reporter

The Social Credit government's bill to ban picketing of government buildings underwent a vicious four-hour barrage in the legislature before it was given second reading at 3:50 a.m. today.

It was the third time in a week that the House had sat through most of the night to debate labor legislation. The latest debate will go down as the most abusive of the session.

When the final vote was taken the three Liberal members sided with the government against the CCF in a 33 to 9 decision.

Although recent debates, notably on Bill 43—the new Trade Union Act—have been one-sided, the government members did not sit back to wait for the CCF to talk themselves out. With leadership of Attorney-General Robert Bonner, Health Minister Eric Martin and Provincial Secretary Wesley Black, they pitched in like terriers at a cat show.

The legislative chambers resounded with cries of "Fascist," "Nazis," "enemies of the Queen," "filthy tactics" and "politically you are all psychopathic."

There were divisions and withdrawals and the Speaker's gavel rapped almost steadily through the night.

Here are some of the startling statements which kept members from falling asleep: Attorney-General Bonner said an escape plan was set at Brannan Lake industrial school, timed for the hours when guards were reduced by last Friday's strike.

Health Minister Martin indicated evidence of "loyalty" during the strike will be rewarded.

Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston suggested the strike was really aimed at scuttling Bill 43, which has been interpreted in some labor circles as "anti-labor legislation."

There were divisions and withdrawals and the Speaker's

Deliberately Misled Into Striking

Mines Minister Kenneth Kiernan said the BCGEA membership was deliberately misled into striking, for political purposes.

Mr. Bonner likened the strike to treason, claiming the only time government is interrupted is "by action of the Queen's enemies."

The verbal battle boiled down to charges by the CCF that the strike was the government's fault and could easily have been avoided, and counter-charges by the Social Credit members that the CCF "egged them on."

Maintaining an almost neutral stand—blaming the government but voting with the anti-picketing bill, were the three Liberal members of the House.

And although the debate touched on everything else in connection with the four-hour Friday the 13th strike, the big question arising out of the dispute between the government and the employees, remained unanswered when the shouting died down:

Did Premier Bennett, or did he not, promise the civil servants that he would file results of an inquiry into the bargaining rights question in the legislature? Did he, or did he not, precipitate the strike by breaking his word to the BCGEA?

The premier and his cabinet steadfastly declined to answer, despite a statement outside the House on Wednesday by Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi that no such promise was made.

This was the issue which sparked the strike after wage requests of the BCGEA were settled. Throughout the debate, the question kept coming up, but the answer never was tackled down.

Bill 123, an act to Amend the Constitution Act, was brought in for second reading at about midnight. Premier Bennett was absent from the chamber until 2:15 a.m.

Gordon Dowding (CCF-Burnaby) opened the attack on the bill, demanding it be ruled out of order because it was printed with a government statement of interpretation on the reverse, which was "argumentative" in nature.

Propaganda on Bill Sparks Fight

This revived a fight begun 24 hours earlier when Bill 43 was under fire and several copies were found to have similar statements printed on them. CCF members said this was an attempt to "sell" the bill, it was propaganda and unconstitutional.

Speaker of the House Hugh Shantz explained he had investigated these charges and found in the case of Bill 43, the statement was "a mistake by the Queen's Printer." The explanatory statement was intended to be printed on a separate paper. The legislature was slated to discuss this later.

But in the meantime, Mr. Dowding took new objection to the statement accompanying Bill 123. When he asked it be withdrawn, the Speaker called a recess while he studied the matter.

Mr. Shantz returned to tell the House that in 1948 the legislature decided all bills would carry explanatory remarks. Mr. Dowding said the remarks were more than explanatory, they were argumentative. He challenged the Speaker's ruling.

There was more debate and crossfire before the vote was taken. Cedric Cox (CCF-Burnaby) noting, "You are getting closer to Germany every day"

At Brannan Lake, the superintendent was the only person freely passed by pickets, he was alone among 175 youths and "I directed four persons"

IN PARLIAMENT

'To Satisfy Greed' Liberal Senator Says

(From Times News Services)

OTTAWA — Veteran parliamentarian Jean-François Pouliot says that after 35 years in Parliament he has seen the first piece of legislation designed "to satisfy the greed of a bureaucrat."

The Liberal senator from Quebec referred Thursday night to a bill that would empower crown corporations and agencies administering patents developed by civil servants to make use of the financial receipts from the inventions.

Speaking as the Senate gave final reading to the bill, Senator Pouliot referred specifically though not by name to the & Development, Ltd., a crown agency which holds the Crown's patent rights. The post is held by Dr. E. R. Birchard.

The bill, Senator Pouliot said, represented "devious and circuitous ways to infringe on the power of Parliament."

Formerly, money coming from crown-held patents went to the federal treasury, and therefore was subject to

'They Want to Run the Show'

"Most top civil servants are greedy for power," he said. "They want to run the show in the back of the minister and of the Parliament of Canada."

He said the president of Canadian Patents told a Senate committee that the bill was designed to help inventors who are civil servants.

"I am not from Missouri, but I do not believe it," Senator Pouliot said.

The Senate and the Commons met for only two hours because of the state funeral held in the afternoon for External Affairs Minister Sidney Smith.

J. W. Pickersgill Thursday night promised to provide Justice Minister Fulton with what he described as defamatory and libellous statements made about the RCMP's part in the Newfoundland loggers' strike. The MP for the Newfoundland constituency of Bonaville-Twillingate said he'd give Mr. Fulton the statements after the minister had told him he couldn't take legal action to protect the RCMP's good name as suggested by Mr. Pickersgill without knowing to what statements the Liberal referred.

Mr. Pickersgill said later he referred to press reports.

A Canadian delegation will leave in the next few days for Canberra to begin negotiations there for a new trade agreement between Canada and Australia, Trade Minister Churchill said.

John H. English, deputy trade minister, will head the delegation.

The decision to review the existing agreement, signed in 1931, was announced at the Commonwealth trade and economic conference in Montreal last fall. In essence, it provides for exchange of preferential tariff treatment.

A government supporter was challenged Thursday night to give the House an explanation promised by a cabinet minister about patronage on national parks jobs in Manitoba. Walter Dinsdale (PC, Brandon-Souris) was reminded by Douglas Fisher (CCF, Port Arthur) that the House was promised by Resources Minister Alvin Hamilton earlier this session that Mr. Dinsdale would explain the patronage matter. However, Mr. Dinsdale remained seated with a smile on his face and made no reply.

PM Urges UN Act on Berlin

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker has called for "further and more careful study" of the possibility of a United Nations role in a settlement of the West Berlin problem.

His statement in the Commons Thursday night was the strongest ever issued by the government in favor of an idea which has been under study for some time by the government's external affairs officials.

But the prime minister did not go beyond a general statement in support of the principle of the UN being included in any settlement on Berlin. It is understood that no definite or precise proposal has been devised.

Mr. Diefenbaker spoke in giving the Commons a brief report on his talks Wednesday with British Prime Minister Macmillan and Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd.

He said the talks reviewed the problems of Germany, Berlin and European security "and of the various proposals for a settlement of those problems now under study in Western capitals and in NATO."

"I should emphasize that neither Mr. Macmillan nor I attempted to crystallize any British or Canadian position on specific questions under discussion."

'Significant Role Deserves Study'

"However, I might add that it is my belief that the United Nations might play some most significant role in the solution of the Berlin problem and that this phase deserves further and more careful study."

Both Opposition Leader Pearson and CCF spokesman H. W. Herridge welcomed the statement.

Mr. Pearson said "it is particularly gratifying to hear the Prime Minister say that there may be a way in which the United Nations can, in due course, play a part in this Berlin situation in a manner which would be helpful to peace and security."

Mr. Diefenbaker also said Premier Khrushchev's statement Thursday—that Russia is prepared to accept May 11 as a date for a foreign ministers' conference—indicates the talks "now seem likely to be held."

It is understood that the basic idea under study here is to find some way in which the UN might underwrite a new four-power agreement on the status of Berlin.

Ideas range from use of UN officials to replace Russian guards at checkpoints along West Berlin's highway lifeline to something as involved as a UN force to replace the occupying garrisons in West Berlin.

BATTLE TO SUPREME COURT

Driver Ruling Challenged

HAMILTON, Ont. (CP)—Lawyer Sydney Paikin said Thursday he now plans to ask the Supreme Court of Canada to judge Ontario's careless driving law following Wednesday's Ontario Court of Appeal decision which ruled the law valid.

In a 3-to-2 decision the appeal court ruled that the careless driving section of the Ontario Highway Act is valid and does not infringe on federal law. This upset the ruling of Chief Justice J. C. McRue of the Ontario Supreme Court who said it did.

Ontario's Attorney General Roberts said some measures are needed to safeguard well-established legislation from being upset on technicalities. He is trying to organize an interprovincial conference to discuss the problem.

70,000-Name Petition Asks More Help for Unemployed

A British Columbia Federation of Labor petition bearing 70,000 names and requesting the British Columbia government to take action to relieve unemployment problems, was presented in the Legislature Thursday by Opposition Leader Robert Strachan.

Referred to the government legal department for study, it will be brought back before the Legislature today.

The petition, which Mr. Strachan said would have been supported by more names if there had been more time, asks that the federal government be requested to extend unemployment insurance coverage for the total jobless period.

It proposed a moratorium be declared to protect homes and increased social assistance to the out-of-work, creation of more low-rental homes, public development of the British Columbia power potential, and preparations for "a broad national conference" to meet the unemployment crisis, in 1960. The signed forms were wrapped in several large bundles.
